VOL. XXI.....NO. 6330. NEW-YORK, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 3, 1872. PRICE FOUR CENTS.

THE REFORM LEGISLATURE.

Formal Opening of the Session in Both Branches.

Election of All the Republican Caucus Nominees.

A Solitary Democratic Vote for Mr. Henry Smith as Speaker.

Special Message from the Governor on the City Debt.

An Important Memorial from Andrew H. Green.

Report of the Controller on the State Finances.

From Our Own Correspondent.

ALBANY, Tuesday, Jan. 2, 1872.

Both Houses of the Legislature assembled at 11 o'clock this morning and proceeded to organize by the election of the officers agreed upon at the Republican caucus last evening. The only notable incident connected with the election was that one Democrat—Mr. OSGOOD, of Troy—voted for the Republican candidate for Speaker. He was elected as a Reform Democrat, is a man of wealth and independence, and voted for Mr. SMITH because he regarded him as a better Reformer than Mr. JACOBS. An unusually large proportion of the members of the present Legislature are new men, and what especially strikes one in their general appearance, is the great increase in the number of members of mature age, as compared with previous Legislatures. This is particularly noticeable in the Assembly. The average ability of the Lower House, judging from appearances, is much higher than that of any Assembly for years past. There is a very large number—perhaps too large—of what may be called good talkers in the present Assembly, and measures coming before it will be pretty sure to undergo a full, if not an able, discussion.

The tedious process of electing officers, swearing members, and listening to the reading of the Governor's message, occupied nearly the whole session of four hours. The speech of Speaker SMITH, on taking the chair, was listened to with great interest and attention, and elicited frequent applause from the galleries. He announces his intention to commence the work of reform in the Assembly itself, and to reduce the number of officials of all grades connected with it to the limit fixed by law.

The custom in past years has been to increase the number of clerks, pages, door-keepers, messengers, &c., by resolution—a practice which Mr. SMITH regards as unauthorized, and which he will not tolerate this session. In accordance with the views expressed in his speech, he declared out of order a resolution that the Postmaster of the last Assembly be directed to officiate until the election of a new one, saying that the law did not provide for any Postmaster at all. Mr. SMITH is not opposed to any officials that may be necessary, but he insists that they shall be appointed in a legal manner, or not at all. His wishes with regard to permanent sessions of the Assembly every working day of the week will hardly meet the concurrence of a majority of the members at least not for the first two or three weeks of the session.

GOV. HOFFMAN'S message is generally admitted to be the ablest as it is the longest of his official papers since he has been in the Executive Chair. His suggestions with regard to the Municipal Government best adapted to New-York City, are admitted to be, for the most part, sound; and his expressed willingness to concur in any Reform charter that may meet the wishes of the people, who have so emphatically repudiated the present "Ring" Government, is looked upon as a good omen. The absence of any comments in the message on the Federal Administration, or any allusion to general politics, is the most remarkable feature of the message, and indicates that the Governor, like most of the leading men of his party, is undecided, at present, what position he is to occupy, but is patiently waiting for something to "turn up." He has evidently broken the trammels that bound him to Democracy, as represented by "Boss" TWEED and his followers, and is ready to co-operate with good men of all parties in such legislation as will promote the welfare of the State and City of New-York. This is all that any one could ask, and it remains for his political opponents, who now constitute the ruling power here, to demonstrate that they are the "honest Legislature," of which the Governor has been so long in search, but could never find in his own party.

The first bill introduced to the Legislature was offered in the Senate, at the opening of the session this morning, by Senator JAMES O'BRIEN, and was very properly a bill to repeal the infamous Erie Classification act. There is little doubt that this iniquitous act will be repealed early in the session. Memorials were presented in the Assembly from contestants for the seats of TOM FIELDS, ALEX. FRASER and JAMES DUNPHY, Tammany members from New-York, setting forth that these men were elected by fraud, and asking for an investigation. They were referred to the Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections hereafter to be appointed. TOM FIELDS, by the way, appeared in his seat in the Assembly today, but TWEED did not answer to the roll-call in the Senate. Bills will be introduced to-morrow providing for the removal from office of the Mayor, Corporation Council and Commissioner of Public Works of New-York City, and for legalizing the acts of the November Grand Jury of the Court of Sessions; also a bill to provide for the immediate necessities of the Finance Department of the City.

Republican Caucus Last Evening—Senator Woodin Nominated to Acting President of the Senate—Another Defeat for the Ring—Probable Character of the Committees—Rumor and Speculated Account of Events.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 2—10 P. M.—A caucus of Republican Senators was held this evening to agree upon some plan of making up the Senate committees. The result was the selection of Senator WOODIN, of Auburn, as the candidate of the party for President pro tem of the Senate and the conferring upon him of full authority to make up the committees, the same as if he were the Lieutenant-Governor. The choice of Mr. WOODIN is a sufficient guarantee that the committees will be formed in the interest of reform, and that neither Nick Sludge Canal Ringe or any other corrupt combination will have a majority representation in them. The Chairmanship of the Railroad Committee will, doubtless, be given to Mr. FOSTER, the new Senator from Washington County, whose long experience and unimpeachable character as a member of the lower House, combined with his knowledge of railroads, entitle him to the position. Mr. ROBERTSON, of Westchester, will probably be Chairman of the Committee of Commerce and Navigation, and Mr. FERRY, of Brooklyn, will most likely head the Committee on Municipal Affairs.

It is reported that Speaker SMITH will announce the Assembly Committees on Privileges and Elections to-morrow morning, in order that they may immediately enter upon their investigation in the contested seat cases. FIELDS' seat will not be contested, as HORATIO SEYMOUR, who ran against him, declines to make any contest, but an investigation will be made of the charges contained in the memorial presented this morning relative to his previous legislative career, and if they are sustained, he will probably be expelled.

It is understood that a memorial will be presented to-morrow charging fraud against FRASER, of New-York, and HUSTED, of Westchester, with regard to a contract for furnishing gravel for New-York City, and asking for their expulsion in case the charges are sustained.

The Assembly will probably adjourn on Thursday till Monday evening next, when the committees will be announced by the Speaker. S.

REGULAR REPORT.

SENATE...ALBANY, Tuesday, Jan. 2.

The Senate was called to order at 11 o'clock A. M. by Lieut.-Gov. BRADY, and Senators were sworn in. The Lieutenant-Governor then addressed the Senators as follows:

SENATORS: The Constitution makes it my duty to preside in the Senate. I shall endeavor to perform that duty faithfully and impartially, hoping that the same courtesy and forbearance of which I have been the recipient in the past will be extended to me in the future. Since the adjournment of the Legislature the standard of reform has been unfurled, and good men, irrespective of their political relations, have rallied around it. This did not come as a movement ten years ago. Demoralization was pervading almost every department of public life. Constitutional obligations were being subordinated to the supposed exigencies of the hour. Peculations, defalcations and reckless extravagance were so common as scarcely to attract attention. Patriots even were beginning to despair of the Republic. In a reaction which seems to have commenced, rests the only hope for the perpetuity of self-government. Let no portion of the newspaper Press, that eloquent voice which daily addresses an audience numbered by millions and which forms and controls public opinion, relaxes its efforts until a temporary inconvenience and partisan advantage may have been avoided. Let no good citizen falter in this fight through apprehension that men high or low in his party may be wounded if the battle progresses. Let your action, Senators of the great State of New-York, be, as it doubtless will, on the side of the right, and you will deserve and receive the commendation of your constituents, and of your country.

The Senate then, by resolutions, proceeded to elect officers, with the following result:

Clerk—James Terwilliger, of Syracuse.

Sergeant-at-Arms—Col. Loomis, of Chenango.

Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms—Jew Postmaster Herman Aulisson, of Jefferson.

Assistant Postmaster—John Lalobaw, of Cattaraugus.

Door-keepers—Mr. Schraw, of Oneida; Col. Young, of Orange; R. Stout, of Oswego; James Hulburt, of Livingston; L. Chaffee, Thomas J. Bridges, and John D. Lunnerman.

Janitor of Capitol—William H. Johnson, of Albany.

Keeper of Senate Chamber—Jeremiah Pierce.

Mr WOODIN offered a resolution providing for the adoption of the Fifteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution, which was laid on the table. Mr. O'BRIEN introduced a bill to repeal the Erie Railroad Directors' act. Mr. LEWIS introduced a bill amending the charter of Buffalo. Mr. PALMER introduced a bill empowering the Poughkeepsie and Eastern Railroad Company to extend the time of its first mortgage bonds, and substitute bonds of a larger denomination. The annual report of the Capitol Commissioners was received and laid on the table. The Senate took a recess for a half an hour, and on reassembling the Governor's message was received and read by the Clerk.

The transmission of the contents of the message the Governor sent in a special message on the New-York City and County finances, of which the following is a synopsis:

In view of the recent events, I addressed a letter to Hon. DAVID A. WELLS, requesting him to investigate and report to me on the subject. In response I have received the annexed report. The City, $87,234,715 49; floating or temporary debt, $24,529,867 22. The present total liabilities do not exceed $100,000,000. The valuation of property Jan. 18, 1871, was $843,985,489. The real estate valuation of the City for 1871 was returned at $630,000,000; and yet this does not represent more than forty per cent. of such property. A true valuation would not be less than $1,000,000,000, on which the present debt, as above estimated, namely $100,000,000, would be equivalent to a mortgage of five per cent. The increase of valuation of property of the City for assessment purposes during the last ten years has been 84½ per cent. The present increase in the value of real estate is estimated at five per cent. per annum. The report concludes by saying: It is therefore evident that in comparison with the actual accumulated and tangible wealth of the City of New-York, any liability on account of indebtedness which the City has incurred, or is prospectively likely to incur, is very insignificant; and with a reasonably honest, efficient and economical Government, such as public opinion and legislative authority, guided by recent experiences, seem certain to compel, there can be no good reason why the interest-bearing debt obligations of the City should not be regarded as the most desirable of investments.

Mr. BENEDICT presented a memorial from A. H. GREEN, Controller of the City of New-York, asking for an immediate provision by the Legislature for the relief of the City finances. On motion of Mr. BENEDICT, the subject was referred to a Select Committee, composed of the Senators from New-York City. Mr. PALMER introduced a bill to amend the charter of the Poughkeepsie Bridge Company. The Senate adjourned till 11 o'clock to-morrow.

ASSEMBLY.

The House was called to order at 11 o'clock A. M. by Hon. C. W. ARMSTRONG, Clerk of the last House, when prayer was offered by Rev. T. BALMIER. The roll was called, and members appeared at the desk and were sworn in by the Secretary of State.

Mr. HUSTED offered a resolution that the House proceed to the election of a Speaker, Clerk and other officers of the House by viva voce, which was adopted. The following officers were elected: Speaker, J. L. SMITH, of Queens; Clerk, C. S. UNDERWOOD, of Cayuga; Sergeant-at-Arms, PHILIP J. REHSHAWT; Door-keepers, EUGENE L. DEMERS, of Rensselaer, JAS. H. LEE, of Cayuga, and JAMES HOGAN; Stenographer, HUDSON C. SAUNDERS, of Cayuga. The Democrats voted for Hon. JOHN C. JACOBS for Speaker, and for the officers of the last House. The vote on Speaker was 98 for Mr. SMITH and 24 for Mr. JACOBS. Messrs. HUSTED and JACOBS were appointed to conduct Speaker SMITH to the chair.

MR. SMITH'S SPEECH.

On taking the Chair, Mr. SMITH said:

GENTLEMEN OF THE ASSEMBLY: Appreciating that you have conferred upon me a distinguished honor in selecting me to discharge the duties of this place, I return my thanks. I realize that an enormous amount of work of great and solemn responsibility. I shall bring to the discharge of the duties of this place my best ability. I shall endeavor to perform its functions with a single regard to the public good, and the sole desire of acting with justice and impartiality toward all. Unless I shall fail in some particulars, I have no doubts, and I must crave your indulgence and your support as we enter together upon the duties and the discharge of the obligations to which we have so lately taken our solemn oaths. Such suggestions as are deemed proper in reference to legislation will, at the appropriate time, be communicated to you from the proper department of the Government. But I trust you will indulge me while I am entering upon the discharge of my duties to make some suggestions in reference to my views of the duties of this place, and of members of this House. The Assembly is the highest and most responsible duty that ever was undertaken by man in his political capacity. The peace, the harmony, the prosperity, the liberty, the personal protection which we all enjoy, depend upon the wisdom and propriety of legislation. We will call upon us in the discharge of this duty all elements of Michael's degree of ability of which we are capable. You and I are representatives of a great State, with varied interests. Laws of a general character, laws as to internal improvements, laws as to municipalities, laws as to corporations are required, and wherever you look, from whatever stand-point of view you consider this question, every right-minded legislator must be deeply and solemnly impressed with the awful responsibility that rests upon him; and while it is required that this responsibility should be exercised with purity and with a sole desire to the public good, party considerations, political contrivances, private considerations, every consideration, must be made subservient to the common good of all; and I feel assured that we as a body realize these things, and that no man here will permit, in a direct or indirect manner, however remote, his judgment to be affected, or himself to be swerved in the slightest degree by any improper consideration whatever. The wisest man and most accomplished will find that there is demanded of him in the discharge of these duties the most constant industry, for in the time usually allotted to legislation each year in this State, the wisest men on earth could not discharge its duties without the most constant and most individual devotion to this public duty, and I trust that all of us shall feel that, while it is a demand upon our private interests and may involve sacrifices in our private affairs, we shall realize that we are in the discharge of a most public duty, and these considerations must yield to that. I may be allowed to say, I trust with propriety here, that the sessions of this Legislature, if you will intelligently consider the questions that are to come before you, must be constant through every business day. There is no time for a recess. There is no time to go home; and I trust from the time when the organization of this House shall be effected until it shall finally adjourn, every one will be steadfast in intending that we shall keep continually in session until we have discharged the duties resting upon us. [Applause.] More, in the way of industry is required, and may I suggest from the little experience I have had—deferring, of course to others who have had more experience than I have had in reference to the discharge of our duties—that it is of the highest importance that the gentlemen of the Assembly should realize that, when we are convened here, it is for the purpose of transacting business in session, and every member will best consecrate his time and will best fit himself for the discharge of his duty upon the final votes of questions that may be presented for consideration, if, while he is here and the House is in session, he will give his undivided attention to the precedent that are pending before the House; if that is generally done, there will be no occasion, as sometimes happens, to inquire of the Chair what the question is, and there will be no occasion for such repeated calls of absentees on the lists. The sessions can be made much shorter and much more effective if members, when they come together, will realize that they come to discharge a business duty, like any other, and that it can be only successfully accomplished, like any other business transaction, by attention to business interests. The successful management of the business affairs of the House of Assembly requires the aid of many subordinate officers. I think that I should express to you my views in reference to the question as to the officers, because, if they are entertained by a majority of the House, it may be in relation to the necessity of a speedy prompt legislation. The Legislature is the representative of the people. It has absolute power to legislate, except where it is restrained by the Constitution. The House of Assembly is but a branch of the Legislature, and it has no power or authority except where it is conferred by the Constitution, to create an office, or incur one dollar of expenditure of the public money. [Applause.] The law provides for some of the details of the organization of this House. It authorizes the election of a clerk, a journal clerk, an engrossing clerk, two clerks for miscellaneous duty, a sergeant-at-arms, a door-keeper, a messenger, assistant, librarian, and assistant, and an assistant messenger. Deferring of course to your judgment upon this subject, so far as I am left to act, I shall deem myself bound by this law, and shall be compelled to respect it. If experience shall prove that a more economical system can be adopted, I shall do according to law, and let a suitable bill be introduced extending the range of offices to such an extent as is essential to the discharge of the duties of the respective places involved. We shall need no one about us here to hold official connection with the House who is not a man of character. We shall need no one but who can offer honest and legitimate employment; and I am under the impression, if constant work shall be furnished to those who are in the employ of this House, there will not be so many enthusiastic patriots willing to enter into the service. It is no favor to a man to appoint him to a place unless it is required in the discharge of some public duty. We should use a poor example to the people of the State if we should indulge idleness, and we confer no favor upon a man by appointing him temporarily here unless there is actual work for him to do. I expect that every one who seeks employment in this broad, fertile and glorious country to go somewhere where he can always be sure of constant and remunerative employment, that to depend upon the caprice of public places. Gentlemen, I enter now upon the discharge of the duties of this place, without a feeling of bitterness toward any gentleman here, and I trust that this feeling may remain when we have finished our duties. I have an apprehension, however, that in one particular especially, I may at sometime, for a moment, seem to be overstepping the duties of this place, and I want to say in regard to that, that I shall attempt to maintain perfect order; it my duty, with firmness and emphasis, if necessary, to maintain perfect and complete order in this House. [Applause.] And if I should find, no matter who it may be, on the floor of this House transacting thoughtlessly—as is often done—some rules are required to maintain perfect order here, I shall not hesitate, because I believe it my duty to call his attention to the matter; and I speak now to the end that if such a thing shall at any time become necessary, growing out of the thoughtlessness of any one, who for a moment may be led into error of our duties with integrity with zeal, and with fidelity, and that we shall conclude with eminent success.

Mr. HUSTED moved that last year's rules be adopted until a select committee be appointed to report corrections. Mr. ROSS moved to except the fifteenth rule, which provides for the appointment of additional members on committees, and moved the adoption of the rules of 1869. Lost. Mr. HUSTED's resolution was adopted. Committees were appointed to wait upon the Governor and Senate and announce the organization of the House. Mr. FOLEY presented the petition of Wm. McMAHON, claiming the election from the Fourth Assembly District of New-York, instead of John J. BLAIR. Referred to the Election Committee. Mr. JACOBS moved that the Postmaster of the last House take charge of documents until the appointment of a Postmaster. The Chair ruled the motion out of order. The Sergeant-at-Arms, by law, is to discharge that duty. Mr. HAWKINS presented the petition of H. G. LEASE, claiming the seat occupied by JAMES DUNPHY, from the Second Assembly District of New-York. Referred to the Election Committee. Also of FRANK KIERNAN, claiming the seat held by ALEX. FRASER, from the Fourth District, New-York. Referred to the Election Committee. Mr. ELY moved that the usual contract be made by the Clerk with the Postmaster at Albany for the transmission of documents. Adopted. Mr HAWKINS presented the memorial of the Nineteenth Assembly District of New-York, contesting the seat of THOS. C. FIELDS. Referred to the Committee on Elections. Col. VAN BUREN, Private Secretary to the Governor, presented the annual message of the Governor, which, at 1 P. M., the Clerk proceeded to read. After the conclusion of the reading, Col. VAN BUREN, Private Secretary to the Governor, appeared and presented a special message from the Governor, relative to the City finances. DAVID A. WELLS on the financial condition of the City and County of New-York, (see report of Senate,) which was laid on the table. The annual reports of the Auditor and Controller were received and laid on the table. The House then took a recess until 8 P. M., to meet and draw for seats.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The House did nothing but draw for seats.

THE NEW-YORK CITY DEBT.

Special Message from the Governor—Authoritative Statement of the Finances of New-York City—Remedial Legislation Recommended.

The following is the special message from Gov. HOFFMAN to the Legislature on the financial condition of New-York City referred to in the regular report of proceedings:

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, ALBANY, Jan. 2, 1872.

To the Legislature:

The financial condition of New-York City is a matter of great interest to the people of the entire State, and, in some degree, to the commercial world, which has used bonds issued for investment at home and abroad. In view of recent events, I deemed it my duty to procure for you full information as to the liabilities and resources, and addressed a letter to the Chairman of the State Board of Commissioners for revision of the Tax laws, Hon. DAVID A. WELLS, who seemed to me especially fitted for the work, requesting him to investigate and report to me. In consequence of delay in his obtaining some of the facts, his report did not reach me until my annual message was in print. My letter to him, and his reply, are as follows:

STATE OF NEW-YORK, EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, ALBANY, Nov. 28, 1871.

MY DEAR SIR: The financial condition and credit of New-York City are of interest as well to the people of the State at large as to its own citizens. It is important that the actual condition of our great Metropolis, in reference to its indebtedness and its resources, should be made known with accuracy; and I desire to communicate the facts to the Legislature and the people of the State in my next message. Will you undertake to investigate the matter in my behalf?

Very truly yours, JOHN T. HOFFMAN.

Hon. DAVID A. WELLS, Chairman, &c.

NEW-YORK, Dec. 28, 1871.

SIR: In response to your note of Nov. 28, requesting me to investigate and report on the condition which exists between the finances of the City and County of New-York and the resources available for the payment of such indebtedness, or the extent of the resources or property which may be fully regarded as constituting an adequate and inalienable security for the ultimate payment in principle and interest of such indebtedness, I have the honor to submit the following exhibit:

FUNDED DEBT.

By report furnished on request by Hon. A. H. GREEN, Controller, it appears that the funded debt—bearing five, six and seven per cent. interest—of the City and County of New-York, was on the 16th day of December, 1871, $87,271,308 81; and the assets of the sinking fund of the City and County—consisting of stocks and cash—available for the redemption of debt, were on the same day $30,137,093 02, thus making the present net funded debt of the City and County of New-York, $57,234,715 49.

FLOATING OR TEMPORARY DEBT.

The temporary or floating debt of the City and County of New-York—consisting of bonds issued in anticipation of receipts from assessments, arrears of interest, State taxes, unpaid warrants and the like—was on the 16th day of December, 1871, $26,529,071 25; or deducting cash on hand—$2,029,204 03 in the City and County Treasury,—$24,499,867 22.

In addition to the above, the Controller also reports claims already presented on unsettled accounts, to an estimated aggregate of about $10,000,000; which last included would make the total ascertained debt and "claims presented" of the City and County of New-York, on the 16th of December, 1871, $98,034,582 22.

PROSPECTIVE INDEBTEDNESS.

So much for the present aspect of the indebtedness of the City and County of New-York. In respect to the future, it is to be noted:

First—That much of the existing temporary and floating debt of the City and County of New-York, above indicated, including an aggregate of assessment bonds issued in anticipation of tax receipts of $14,950,700—is redeemable from the collection of assessments, or arrears of taxes, and that a very considerable amount of these assessments and arrears is certain to be collected. And,

Second—That the City holds bonds and mortgages on account of sales of real estate to the amount of $1,128,866 36; the proceeds of which, when collected, are applicable for an increase of the sinking fund held for the redemption of the funded debt.

On the other hand, it is known that claims to a very considerable amount for services rendered and materials furnished to the several Departments of the City and County Government during the year 1871, and previously, are yet to be presented, and that the carrying out of such public works as are already in progress or are certain to be authorized, will also require further additional expenditures.

But in estimating the amount of these prospective requirements for expenditure, it should not be overlooked, that the amount of claims against the City which are yet to be presented is not likely to be in excess of the arrears of assessments and taxes yet to be collected; and, further, that the amount to be hereafter expended on account of public improvements cannot, with any regard for economy and moderation, ever prove disproportionate to the concurrent increase in the material resources of the City, arising from its certain and rapid increase in wealth, business and population.

So that, making every allowance for contingencies, or any immediate advances on account of public improvements, the total present liabilities of New-York City and County may be safely estimated as not in excess of $100,000,000; and that the ratio which the liabilities of the City and County at present sustain to their assets and resources, are not likely to be changed for the worse in the future; certainly not if the safeguards against corruption and extravagant expenditure, suggested by recent experience, are by the Legislature authorized and provided.

INFLUENCE OF PUBLIC IMPROVEMENTS IN AUGMENTING THE SOURCES OF MUNICIPAL REVENUE.

As bearing upon the question of future municipal liabilities, on account of expenditures for public improvements, it is interesting to note the result which has followed one of the largest single items of expenditure authorized by the City for such purposes, and which, at the time of its inception, was denounced by many as a measure of indefensible extravagance. We refer to the expenditures incurred by reason of the construction of the "Central Park," the cost of which, up to 1869, is returned at $10,463,965.

Now, an examination of all the facts pertaining to this expenditure will show that, so far from its having been a burden upon the City Treasury, it has really proved a direct and important source of revenue. Thus, in 1856, before the Park was commenced, the total valuation of real estate for taxation in the three wards around the Park, the Twelfth, Nineteenth, and Twenty-second, was $26,429,505; but in 1866, when the Park had been practically completed, the valuation of the same property for assessment was returned at $80,070,415, an increase in ten years of $53,640,850. And further, the revenue received by taxation on this increased valuation was sufficient in 1870 to not only pay the interest on all the bonds of the City issued for the Park purchase and construction, but actually liquidate a lower three millions of dollars; or a sum sufficient, if used as a sinking fund, to pay the entire principal and interest of the cost of the Park in less time than the Park was in the course of construction.

ASSETS AND RESOURCES.

The maximum of the liabilities of the City and County, on account of indebtedness, having been thus estimated, we come next to the no less important consideration of the assets and resources available for the payment of such indebtedness. In this connection the property which may be properly regarded in the nature of security or guarantee for the payment of such obligations of indebtedness as the City and County of New-York may have lawfully issued.

Any valuation of the public property of the City must from necessity be very indefinite, inasmuch as many of the items which would be included in any inventory—as the streets, sewers, lamps, public monuments and the like—are not susceptible of a money valuation, and if attached would be practically of no benefit in the hands of a City creditor; but apart from these, it cannot be doubted that the value of the lands and buildings, wharves, water, ferry and market rights in possession of the City and County, and which can be readily convertible in open market into a money equivalent, is in excess of every present Municipal or County indebtedness.

The valuation of the public property of the City of New-York, given by the Mayor in an official communication to the Board of Supervisors, Aug. 18, 1871, was $423,888,450.

In this valuation were comprised the following items:

Markets	$4,397,374
Sinking fund of land	3,719,307
Wharfs and piers	12,221,433
Public parks and squares	105,416,460
Total	$126,752,574

Next to the so-called public property of the City and County, the property most readily available for attachment and levy in case of a default in the payment of the principal or interest of the City's indebtedness, is the real estate of the City and County, the revenue derived from the assessment and taxation of which constitutes also the main element and strength of its municipal credits.

The valuation of the class of property for the year 1871, as returned by the Commissioners of Taxes and confirmed by the Board of Supervisors, was $769,826,410. But it ought to be clearly understood that this valuation for tax purposes does not represent any fair valuation of the property assessed, or even an approximation thereto, and in great part for the following reasons:

The taxation required to defray the expenditures of the State as a whole, is apportioned to the several counties of the State, according to their property valuation; and hence there has been for years, and is now, a strife between the different Boards of County Officials, to keep down the valuation of property to the very lowest practical figure, in order to divert as large a proportion of the State taxation as possible from themselves, and throw it upon their neighbors; and as some of the counties in the interior of the State have been so successful in doing this, as to actually realize about twenty-five to thirty, twenty and even a smaller proportion of the real and true value of the property assessed, a similar course of procedure has been forced upon the tax officials of New-York, as a matter of necessity and local protection. And thus it has come about that instead of the real assessment valuation of $769,826,410 for 1871-2 representing the true market value of the real estate of the City and County of New-York, in private ownership, it does not in all probability represent more than forty per cent. of such true value; as a estimate which instead of being a conjecture, is based on a large amount of evidence recently collected by an expert for the Board of Commissioners for revising the laws of the State relative to taxation.

The conclusion, therefore, seems warranted that the value of the real estate of the City of New-York, public and private, which may be fairly regarded as an available security for the liquidation of City and County debts, cannot be less than two thousand million of dollars, on which the present debt, as above estimated, namely $100,000,000, would be equivalent to a mortgage of five per cent.

In this estimate it will be observed that no account has been taken of the valuation of the personal property owned or held by citizens of the City or County of New-York. The amount of such property valued and assessed for the year 1871-2 was $236,947,252. The investigations of the State Commissioners tend, however, to the conclusion that the amount does not represent so much as twenty per cent. of the real value of this description of property concentrated in the City of New-York; or in other words, that the true value of the personal property of New-York City, cannot be estimated at less than fifteen hundred millions. Much of this property, it must be acknowledged, can never be reached for assessment purposes by any law which the ingenuity of man can devise, or which any civilized people would tolerate in respect to execution, but whether returned for assessment or not, it nevertheless exists, and by increasing the ability to pay, operates to decrease the real burden of taxation imposed on other property of a more tangible and accessible character.

It is also to be noted that, if the new plan of assessing personal property, recommended by the State Board of Commissioners, and which is to be presented this Winter to the Legislature in the form of a definite code, is adopted, namely, of doing away with the direct assessment of individuals for personal property, and substituting, therefor, as an equivalent, the assessment of individuals on a valuation of three times the rent or rental value of the premises by them occupied, the amount or equivalent of such property returned for assessment and taxation will be very greatly increased; and the financial resources of the City be thereby correspondingly augmented.

INCREASE OF NEW-YORK IN POPULATION AND WEALTH.

In estimating the prospective ability of the City of New-York to sustain and liquidate indebtedness, the recent and prospective increase of the City in population and wealth constitutes an element of not a little importance. Thus, from 1820 to the year preceding the outbreak of the civil war, 1860, the average rate of increase for each successive period of five years was twenty-eight per cent; a continuous rate of growth, probably without precedent in any country. During the period of the war, or from 1860 to 1865, the population of the City decreased nine and three-quarters per cent. Since 1865, or during the five years from 1865 to 1870 inclusive, the gain in population was twenty-six and three-quarters per cent.; thus indicating that the average rate of increase experienced prior to 1860 was again likely to be approximated.

The increase in the valuation of the property of the City and County for assessment purposes, during the ten years from 1860 to 1870, was 84½ per cent.

The present increase in the value of the real estate of the whole City for assessment purposes, is estimated by experts to average about five per cent. per annum.

RELATION OF TAXATION TO POPULATION AND PROPERTY.

It is also interesting to note the relation which taxation sustains to population and property in New-York and some of the other leading cities of the country. The following data are derived from the most authentic sources:

City of New-York—Population 1870, 942,292; aggregate State, City, County and school taxes, 1870, $26,408,859; special taxes, as estimated by officials, $2,000,000; total taxation, $27,409,859. Taxation per capita, $29.09.

Boston—Population, 1870, 250,526, aggregate of all taxation, 1870, $9,050,430; taxation per capita $36.

Chicago—Population, 1870, 298,977; total taxation, general and special, 1870, $9,156,853; taxation per capita, $30.

But as in the opinion of some experts, the burdens of taxation in any community are properly represented by the relation which the aggregate of the annual levy of taxes assume to the value of property assessed, attention is further asked to the following comparisons:

In Boston and Philadelphia real estate is returned for assessment at nearly its full marketable value. On this basis the relation of taxation to real estate valuation in these two cities would be as follows: Boston, real estate valuation, 1870, $365,590,100; aggregate taxation, 1870, $9,050,430; ratio of taxation to real property valuation, 1 to 40.

Philadelphia—Real estate valuation, 1871, $401,844,006; aggregate taxation, 1871, $9,026,783; ratio of taxation to real property valuation 1 to 45.

Cincinnati—Real estate valuation, as made anew for 1871, $128,427,885; aggregate taxation, 1871, $4,004,035; ratio of taxation to real property valuation, 1 to 30.

In the City of New-York, on the other hand, on valuation of real estate acknowledged to be only a fraction per cent. of its value, the ratio of aggregate taxation to real property valuation would have been in 1870, as 1 to 27; but if the valuation of the real estate of New-York were advanced in proportion to the value taken for assessment purposes in Boston and Philadelphia, the ratio instead of being as 1 to 27, would be more nearly approximable that in either of the cities above mentioned, or in the approximative ratio of at least 1 to 45.

It is therefore evident that in comparison with the actual accumulated and tangible wealth of the City of New-York, any liability, on account of indebtedness, which the City has as yet incurred, or is prospectively likely to incur, is very insignificant; and, with a reasonably honest, efficient and economical Government, such as public opinion and legislative authority, guided by recent experiences, seems certain to compel, there can be no good reason why the interest-bearing debt obligations of the City should not be regarded as the most desirable of investments. I am yours, most respectfully,

DAVID A. WELLS,

Chairman Board of Commissioners for revision of the laws of the State of New-York relating to assessment and collection of taxes.

To Hon. JOHN T. HOFFMAN, Governor of the State of New-York.

I have also received a letter, dated 29th December, 1871, from Hon. ANDREW H. GREEN, Controller of the City of New-York, in which he says:

"Immediate legislation is essential for the maintenance of the credit of the City by the meeting of the obligations maturing early in January and to which provision for payment which are due and which are of pressing importance. Equally important is prompt legislation to make provision for the maintenance of the Government of 1872.

"As the law appears now, (chap. 886, sec. 9 of 1871,) no authority exists to make appropriations until the next meeting, leaving the four first months of the year 1872 without any provision by which payments of necessary expenses for those months can be made."

I respectfully ask your immediate attention to those suggestions, and such early legislation as may be necessary, as shall seem to you proper.

JOHN T. HOFFMAN.

THE CONTROLLER'S MEMORIAL.

Mr. Green Wants Funds—How the City Moneys were Squandered—Necessity for Immediate Legislative Action.

The following is the memorial addressed to the State Legislature, by Controller GREEN, relative to the New-York City finances:

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 2.

To the Honorable the Legislature of the State of New-York:

The memorial of the Controller of the City of New-York respectfully sheweth: That, shortly after assuming the duties of the office of such Controller it became apparent that the expenditures of the City and County Governments during the first eight months of the present year amounted to nearly, if not quite as much as the whole sum authorized to be expended for the whole year, and that engagements had been entered into by the various Departments of those Governments that will require large sums for their liquidation. Many of the contracts are largely in arrears for their current expenses, for salaries and wages, for maintenance of almshouses, and for other demands of an urgent character. The creditors of the City are pressing for payment. There are no means in the Treasury to meet their demands, and no lawful authority exists to provide the means for them. A statement of the affairs of the Finance Department, on the 16th day of December, 1871, is hereby appended, showing the total funded and floating debt as that date to be $84,833,847 32. A comparison with previous years shows that the interest-bearing debt of the City and County has increased during the year 1869 in the sum of $13,264,621 42; during the year 1870, $25,440,394 30; during the year 1871, $17,866,682. The revenue bonds and the interest thereon amount to the sum of $6,617,619 80, mature on the 15th day of the present month, for payment, for the most of it, a considerable part of which immediate attention is necessary. The already large amount of interest-bearing debt will unavoidably be increased by the settlement and payment of claims for arrears of indebtedness of various classes, and also by the carrying on of numerous works already authorized by the Legislature, and now in progress. The undersigned further respectfully represents that there appears to be no legislative authority to make the necessary appropriations of money for the first four months of the present year, and that any delay in making any such provision will result in very great embarrassments. Several contractors with the City, having large numbers of men in their employ, are embarrassed in the progress of their work by reason, among other things, of the omission on the part of City officers to take the necessary steps to make the contracts strictly and technically conform to the terms of the law. In these cases, where the contracts are made in good faith and free from the suspicion of fraud, the undersigned would recommend such legislation as will enable the contractors to carry out their work and to secure prompt payment therefor. Moneys have been generously advanced by several of the banks and insurance companies of the City to pay the wages of laboring men and the employes of the Fire Department, and for other necessary purposes, and the undersigned would respectfully suggest that provision be made for the reimbursement of these advances. With all these demands upon the Treasury, the undersigned anticipates no doubt that, under the influence of proper legislation, the expenses of the several Departments may be very largely reduced without either diminishing the public comfort or convenience, and that the resources of the City of New-York, are fully adequate to meet all its engagements and to carry on the important public works now in progress. The undersigned respectfully represents to your honorable body the urgent necessity of immediate legislative provisions for the support of the Government of the City; for the reduction of the expenses of its administration and the preservation of its credit. These provisions may now, if your honorable body approve, be of a temporary character such as will meet existing important and pressing exigencies, until your honorable body shall have matured the more comprehensive and permanent measures that are essential for the future welfare of the City.

ANDREW H. GREEN, Controller.

NEW-YORK, Jan. 1, 1872.

Appended to the memorial is the statement of the financial condition of the City and County on the 16th of December, which has already been published.

STATE FINANCES.

Annual Report of the Comptroller—Statement of the Debt—Interesting Statistics.

The following is the detailed statement of the State's finances, its debt and resources, as made by Comptroller ASHER P. NICHOLS to the Legislature:

DEBT.

On the 30th September, 1870, the total funded debt was $26,621,008 40, classified as follows:

General Fund	$4,040,023 40	Canal	11,566,380 00
Contingent	6,000 00	Bounty	22,007,000 00
Total			$33,621,008 40

On the 30th September, 1871, the total funded debt was $26,121,008 40, classified as follows:

General Fund	$4,040,023 40	Canal	$11,566,380 00
Contingent	6,000 00	Bounty	22,007,000 00
Total			$33,121,008 40

The following statement shows the amount of the State debt on the 30th September, 1871, after deducting the unapplied balances of the sinking funds at that date:

	Debt on the 27th September.	Balances of sinking funds applying per 1871.	Debt after applying Sept. 1871.
General fund	$4,040,023 40	$1,505,766 28	$2,534,257 12
Contingent	6,000 00	19,159 83	46,840 17
Canal	11,566,380 00	1,484,606 27	10,081,773 73
Bounty	22,007,000 00	5,128,158 44	16,878,841 57
Total	$33,121,008 40	$8,137,690 82	$29,483,317 58

The State debt on the 30th September, 1870, after deducting the unapplied balances of the sinking funds, amounted to $32,409,144 28
On the 30th September, 1871, to 29,483,317 58
Showing a reduction of $2,925,441 74

GENERAL FUND DEBT.

The following statement gives the items of the General Fund Debt on the 30th September, 1871, and they are presented more in detail in the tables of the appendix accompanying this report:

Assembly, chapter 202, Laws of 1871, and chapter 8, Laws of 1872	$861,500 00
Deficiency loans under chapter 216, Laws of 1846	3,237,857 77
Controller's bonds	12,000 00
Indian annuities	125,000 00
Not paying interest	11,500 00

responsibility for their management. More than 800 applications for pardon or commutation have been made during the year. Eighty-four pardons, twenty-nine commutations and five reprieves were granted.

STATE MILITIA.

The State Militia, or "National Guard," numbers about 24,000 officers, non-commissioned officers and privates. This valuable force, essential to the security of public order, ought to be generously sustained by the Legislature. A contract has been made for supplying the force with breech-loading rifles. The Adjutant-General has made very satisfactory progress in obtaining the adjustment and allowance of claims of the State against the General Government for expenditures in the late war. At the time he came into office the balance of the claims unsettled was $622,132 62, of which it had been estimated not more than fifty per cent could be recovered, owing to informalities and irregularities. There has been recovered already the sum of $622,279 18, with the prospect of an early adjustment of the whole balance left unsettled on the 1st of January, 1869. Additional claims to the amount of $364,107 07 have already been presented to the Treasury Department, and others to about the same amount will very soon be ready.

THE QUARANTINE.

During the past year, 237 vessels arriving at New-York have been quarantined on account of sickness on board. Upon these vessels, at their period of departure, on the passage, and after their arrival at Quarantine, there were 725 cases of contagious and infectious diseases and 109 deaths. During the quarantine season, from the first of April to the first of November, 466 vessels, arriving from ports infected with yellow fever, were detained for observation. During that period 640 vessels from suspected ports were examined at Lower Quarantine, and placed under observation from two to five days. These constitute the total number of vessels detained during the year beyond the time actually necessary for examination. During the past year there arrived 147 vessels, having on board 50,428 persons who were exposed to this disease during the passage. The number of cases of small-pox reported was 843, of which 293 were taken to hospital from Quarantine. These facts demonstrate the necessity for a thorough administration of quarantine laws. The immunity which the City and State of New-York have enjoyed during the past year from the introduction of contagious and infectious diseases from abroad may justly be ascribed to the precautions adopted. There have been for many years, and under all administrations, complaints in the British Provinces, and in Europe, and against the Harbor-masters of the port of New-York. No proof has been adduced of maladministration on the part of the present officers.

It is recommended that the Governor be empowered to appoint the Health Officer and Harbor-Master, including the Captain of the Port, without the consent of the Senate; and to remove them or any of them at pleasure. A prompt remedy would then be provided against abuses without the delay incident to a formal investigation.

IMMIGRATION.

The number of arrivals of immigrants at New-York this year is 220,000, an increase over last year of 17,000.

CANALS.

The surplus revenues of the canals for the past year have been nearly double those of the previous year, although, in consequence of the year 1870, the former higher rates of toll prevailed; the contribution to the sinking fund for the fiscal year ending 30th of September last being $961,586 83, against $539,974 41 contributed the year before. The policy of low tolls, which, when first recommended, met with strong opposition, is now, by general consent, admitted to be wise. The season of navigation of 1871 was fifteen days shorter than that of 1870, yet there was an increase of tolls to the extent of $457,172 [illegible]

The suggestion is made that in view of the several treaties made between the United States and foreign governments, in respect to naturalization and expatriation, whether it would not be wise to remove all disabilities of aliens relating to the acquisition, possession and transmission of real estate. In several of the States of the Union these disabilities no longer exist, and in England they were removed by statute passed May 12, 1870.

Attention is called to the subject of alleged abuses under the referee system in our Courts, with a view to providing a remedy, by law, for such abuses as may be found to exist, and prompt action is recommended.

DIVERSION OF WITNESSES.

Allusion is made to the hardships and injustice frequently inflicted upon persons who are detained in our courts as witnesses in criminal cases. The law should provide that no person shall be detained in prison as a witness in criminal cases beyond a specified time, and that, if the trial be postponed beyond that time on motion of the prisoner, it shall be only on condition of his consent that his testimony of the witnesses may be taken de bene esse, as in civil cases. Recommendation is made for the third time that power be conferred upon the Oyer and Terminer, or upon the Supreme Court at General Term, to grant new trials upon the merits, or upon newly-discovered evidence, in cases of conviction before the Oyer and Terminer. The Courts of Sessions, which are inferior tribunals, have the power in cases of conviction before them. A person wrongfully convicted in the Oyer and Terminer, no matter how clear his innocence may be shown by newly-discovered evidence, has no remedy save a pardon from the Executive.

THE INSANE ASYLUMS.

A revision of the laws relating to the insane is also suggested. Now, any two Justices of the Peace, upon the certificate of two physicians, may deprive a man of his liberty on the ground of lunacy, and order him to be confined in a lunatic asylum. Private lunatic asylums should be brought under some system of licensing by the public authorities.

THE LAW ON HOMICIDES.

For the fourth time, an amendment of the laws relating to murder is recommended. Instances of homicide occur where the intent to take life is proved, but where the facts are such that the jury are unwilling to find a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree, because the peculiar facts do not warrant the extreme penalty of death. They cannot, under our present statutes, define the case as one of murder in the second degree. They, therefore, either acquit or render a verdict of manslaughter in the third or fourth degree, although conscious that the light penalty awarded to these degrees is inadequate. The maximum punishment for manslaughter in the third degree should be made much greater.

The abuse of delaying financial or auditing bills is alluded to, and a demand for correction made.

The immediate repeal of the General Town Bonding act is recommended as important to the general welfare of the people.

TAX REVISION.

Under the provisions of a joint resolution of the Legislature, passed April 25, 1870, DAVID A. WELLS, GEORGE W. CUTLER, and EDWIN DODGE were appointed a Commission "to revise the laws for the assessment and collection of taxes," which Commission, in the discharge of its duties, presented a report in February, 1871. The report was important and exhaustive in its character, and novel in its suggestions. The system recommended by the Commissioners, and of which an outline code has been already submitted to the Legislature, is substantially as follows:

First.—To tax real estate in like manner as under existing laws; provisions for enforcing valuation according to a common and well-defined but moderate standard, being at the same time prescribed. It is understood that the Commissioners favor the creation of an office, whose incumbent shall be especially charged with the enforcement of the laws relative to taxation, and be invested with all necessary powers for accomplishing such object, and insuring, so far as possible, equity and uniformity.

Second.—To tax municipal corporations of the State in conformity with existing laws.

Third.—To tax personal property, especially the experience of New-York, shows that the attempt to tax directly property other than such as is embraced under the two before enumerated classes, affords little or no revenue, and that the revenue so yielded lies of revenue in the future than in the past; and, above all, it discriminates against the industry of New-York in comparison with other states. The Commissioners regard it as a cumbrous and equivalent for all such defective taxation, to tax the occupier, in lieu of owner or tenant, of any and every building used as a dwelling, or for any other purpose, on a valuation of three times the rental or annual value of the premises occupied; but not including under such assessment any land except such as the building stands on, or is essential for access thereto.

All property not embraced under one of these provisions, as above stated, is to be exempt from taxation.

The Commissioners allege, in regard to their proposed new system, that, under the first and second provisions, nearly all the property now subject to taxation will be embraced; and that, under the third provision, property additional, or rather ability to contribute to the expenses of the State, is conspicuously wanting, in proportion which the State accords to the person assessed, will be embraced to the extent of from $900,000,000 to $[illegible],000,000; thus reducing the rate of taxation all over the State, and especially relieving the labor and capital invested in agricultural and manufacturing industries, and in shipping, which it ought to be the object of the State especially to favor.

STREET PROCESSIONS.

The subject of the regulation and control of processions in public streets has been made one of special interest by unhappy occurrences in the City of New-York in July last. The occupation of the public streets by bodies of men for the purpose of civic as well as military processions has been permitted and acquiesced in for long a period that it has come to be looked upon as a vested right. It has been the duty of New-York City to afford them protection by the presence and escort of part of the Police force, without reference to the occurrences which the demonstrations were designed to celebrate, or to the text, some or sentiments, political or religious, of those engaged in them. This right of the citizens to parade the streets should be reaffirmed by statute as firmly as the right of free discussion and as is the right of the people "peaceably to assemble" by the Constitution of the United States, and may be regarded, in some sense, as a practical exercise of those rights.

The immediate cause of July last was the cause which led to it, the Governor says:

"My duty, then, was plain, to will, to sustain by the whole power of the State, the local authorities in repressing threatened disturbances, and by so doing, to assert the equal rights of all citizens. The loss of life that ensued from the use of military force is a matter for great regret. It is clear, however, that whatever else in the case, the rights and privileges of all classes of men must be alike protected, or none are safe; and that the prohibition of a procession representing one class of sentiment today upon the demand of its opponents, or otherwise, would be taken as a precedent for interference on another occasion, with one representing the opposite views, to the constantly recurring disturbance of the public peace, and to the abridgment of the privileges of all. Whatever laws may be passed on the subject should secure equal privileges to all men of whatever religion, or whatever politics, of whatever race, color or creed."

UNITED STATES SENATORS.

The passage of a joint resolution is suggested requesting the Senators and Representatives from this State in Congress to use their efforts to have the following amendment to the Constitution of the United States proposed by Congress, to wit:

"After the adoption of this amendment Senators from each State shall be chosen by the people of the several States, and not by the Legislatures thereof. Whenever the term of a Senator is about to expire the successor shall be chosen by the people of the State at the general election for members of the House of Representatives in such State occurring next previous to the expiration of such term; and whenever a vacancy shall happen otherwise than by expiration of term, such vacancy shall be filled at the first general election for members of the House of Representatives which shall take place in the State in whose representation in the Senate the vacancy shall have happened, not less than three months after the vacancy shall have occurred, and in the meantime the Governor of the State may make a temporary appointment of a Senator until the expiration of one month after the election at which the vacancy shall be permanently filled."

It is the opinion of the Executive the people are quite as capable of electing a Senator by their own direct vote as they are of electing a Governor; and there is no need of delegating the important power of choosing a Senator of the United States to any electoral body.

NEW-YORK CITY.

The recent exposure of great wrongs in the administration of the local Government of the City of New-York has aroused public attention, to an extraordinary but wholesome extent, to the necessity of a reform in the conduct of public affairs. In that City especially, the people have spoken in a way which must not be misinterpreted. They demand an improvement in the condition of their local Government through legislation, which shall have in view neither party nor personal ends, but the permanent general good. For many years the City had not had a charter under which it was possible for its people, even if they had been willing to attend to their own interests, to have secured an efficient and faithful local government. At one time governed under local laws which failed to fix responsibility anywhere, at other times under varied, disconnected and irresponsible commissions, created to enable minorities in the City to exert political control; confusion, mismanagement and extravagance were apparent to every one, but the responsible authorities thereof were concealed under the complicated machinery which was unwisely substituted for a simple government of the people.

During the session of 1870 the present New-York Charter was enacted. It received very extensive favor from the Press, and passed by a nearly unanimous vote of both Houses of the Legislature; another form of charter, submitted to them previously at the same session, having been, by a decided vote, rejected. As a whole, the charter adopted was a great improvement on the then existing condition of things. It was a first step in reform, casting aside, as it did, a very vicious system of government, the evils of which had long been manifest to many, and are now manifest to all. The chief defect of the present charter is in recognizing the mistaken doctrine of the Congressional Tenure-of-office law, whereby a subordinate in administrative duties is made independent of the appointing power, instead of being subject to summary removal by the chief executive officer for cause satisfactory to him.

A somewhat lengthened tenure of office in some Departments of the City Government, such as are created to carry out, or to administer some special work, may be, for many reasons, desirable; and is not objectionable, if the power be given to the Mayor to remove, for cause to be publicly assigned by him. The Parks of the City and the Croton Aqueduct have been this administered from the beginning. All officers connected with the general administration of the City affairs, the Controller, the Counsel to the Corporation, the Chamberlain and others should be appointed by the Mayor, with or without the consent of the Aldermen, be removable by him, and go out of office with him at the end of his term, as a matter of course. To require the consent of the Board of Aldermen to a removal tends to a division of responsibility and opens the way for bargaining.

Though the charter was not all it should have been, it was the best that could then be obtained, and it promised relief from great and long continued wrong, under which the people of the City had been suffering, and from a system of government, the abuses under which were now coming to light. The misconduct, recently exposed, was not a consequence from any of its provisions.

The responsibility for the wrong-doing, which has very justly aroused public indignation, does not rest on the charter, but upon the character of the individuals who held office in the City before the charter was passed, and took office also under it. The difficulty with the charter, in this connection, is that it provided no means for summary removal from office. The auditing of the alleged claims against the County Government, to the extent of $6,000,000 and upward, to which the public attention has been chiefly directed, was made, not under the charter, but under a clause in the bill commonly called the New-York County tax-levy; a clause, perhaps not objectionable in itself, if the powers which it conferred had been faithfully and carefully exercised. The annual Tax Levy of New-York should no more be made up by the Legislature than that of any other county. It has been the practice for many years to have the City Tax Levies passed upon by the Legislature, and this has been the occasion of great abuse, the estimates of the City authorities being cut down to meet the clamor largely raised in the Legislature. One of the good results looked for from the enactment of the present charter and other laws passed at the same time, was the abolition of the practice of bringing the City Tax Levies into the Legislature.

The Governor does not allude to these facts because he intends to recommend repealing the present charter, but because they ought to be known and understood. Many of the provisions of this charter cannot, in his judgment, be improved upon, but it is under popular disfavor, and he recommends its repeal and the enactment of a new one in which all that is good in the old one may be retained, all that is evil rejected, and all that is defective remedied.

The people of the City have, by their recent concerted and intelligent action, proved their capacity to manage their own affairs, and to redress their own wrongs. They demand of the Legislature now, not a return to systems which have upon trial proved to be failures, but the establishment of the wisest and best form of a strictly local Government; the prominent features of which shall be executive power and responsibility in its Mayor, clear and well-defined accountability of all officials and frequent opportunities for the people to rid themselves of a local administration not faithful to their interests. It would not be wise for the State to take any part of the responsibility for the management of the local affairs of New-York City. It is the duty of the State to give to the City a good organic law, under which its people can manage their own affairs and protect their own interests, and then let them understand distinctly that the success of their own willingness to attend to their public duties. If they will not give attention to their own affairs, no form of charter nor provision of law can secure to them good government. Municipal wrongs are not to be cured by the mere passage of a new law, however perfect in its structure; and it is certain that any charter framed to promote personal or partisan interests, will have, as it deserves to have, a brief existence.

A NEW CITY CHARTER.

New-York City needs a permanent charter, as well as a good one—one which cannot be nullified or substantially repealed by the surreptitious insertion of a clause in a tax-levy, or some other bill, or even by a specific law, with any, and every change in the persons composing the Legislature. The charter of a city of a million inhabitants should be as well considered, as permanent and almost as sacred as the constitution of a State. It should not only provide for the organization and conduct of the various departments of the local government, and clothe it with power to raise, by annual tax the moneys necessary for its maintenance, but it should limit and restrict its power to create debts, except by the consent of its people, expressed in a formal and authoritative manner. In this respect it would be well if we could imitate, in part, at least, our own State Constitution, which, in addition to limiting the amount of the payment of existing debts, forbids the creation of any new indebtedness, except with the express consent of the people, for some single work or object to be specified in the law, which must provide also for a direct tax to pay the interest every year, and the principal within a specified period. This permanent character cannot, however, be secured to a charter without an amendment to our State Constitution.

In framing a new charter, now, the following points should be kept prominently in view:

First.—Fixing the responsibility for good administration of all City affairs upon the Mayor; and to this end giving him full power of appointment and removal of all heads of departments except the Police. This would give the people an early opportunity for a new election of local officers.

Third.—Making the Mayor subject to removal by the Governor, for malfeasance in office or neglect of duty.

Fourth.—Providing for a Police Department, with three Commissioners, to be appointed as follows: one by the Mayor, one by the Chief Judge of the Court of Common Pleas, and one by the Chief Judge of the Supreme Court, to be removable, any of them, as in the case of Sheriffs, by the Governor for cause. A Board thus constituted and so subject to removal would be, as it ought to be, a strictly local Board, subject to the control of the Mayor, as a civil, and conservators of the peace in their respective counties, and as free as any Board could possibly be from the danger of improper personal or partisan influence.

Fifth.—Requiring the monthly publication of all receipts and expenditures, and of all bonds issued, and a yearly publication also of all contracts, made by any department, with a statement of the general expenditures of each department and of their pay-rolls.

Sixth.—Concentrating the responsibility of those composing, what may be termed the legislative branch of the City Government, by constituting this of one Board, a Board of Aldermen not too numerous, this Board, with the Mayor, acting as Supervisors, levying all taxes. A second Board is not necessary. The Common Council is not called upon to pass laws, but to execute the affairs of a corporation. In civil, as in law, two Houses have the effect simply of scattering responsibility, weakening the sense of responsibility and dividing the control of public affairs. Without the necessity of two members will result in the same evil results. If any plea can be derived for giving in the legislative branch of the City Government, by electoral districts, a larger representation to the minority, it would be a mistaken movement. In carrying out such a purpose, great care must be exercised lest the choice of their representatives be practically taken out of the hands of the people, as in the instance of the late Board of Supervisors, which was the worst device of modern times in connection with local government. The candidates named by either party were sure of being elected. The proper purpose of minority representation is to secure to the minority the opportunity of being heard in the public councils, without nullify the rightful control of the majority as to doing from its just responsibility.

Seventh.—Providing that there shall be no debt created except for some single work or object by authority of law, and also under an ordinance to be submitted to or approved by the people of the City; every ordinance and law authorizing a debt to contain a provision for the satisfactoriness of the same within a fixed period, and the City given by the Mayor an absolute veto upon all ordinances creating or increasing the City debt. Upon all other ordinances his veto should not be overruled except by the vote of three-fourths of all the members elected to the Board of Aldermen; and in the case of ordinances containing several items of appropriation of money, he should have power to veto some of them while approving others.

Eighth.—Giving compensation to all officers and appointees of the City Government by fixed salaries and not by fees.

Ninth.—Providing some well-defined, summary and effectual remedy in the courts for taxpayers against abuses of trust by municipal officers, with the rights also given to them, under proper restrictions, to examine books and papers in the office of any of the departments.

Tenth.—Providing that the acceptance of any office in, under or connected with the State Government or the Federal Government shall be a vacating of any office by the same person in or under the Municipal government, and that no person shall hold more than one office at the same time, in or under the Municipal Government.

These suggestions, although made with especial reference to New-York City, will apply generally to all large cities. City charters must, of necessity, according to population and circumstances, differ more or less in detail. What is needed in a city of a million of people, would not be required in one of fifty or a hundred thousand; and a general law similar at entire uniformity in such charters is, in my judgment, not desirable. The people of any city, with a charter embracing the general provisions referred to, can, if they choose, keep up a simple, honest and efficient local government; and under such a charter, if they will frown down corruption among the officers and put to the holders of office; if they will condemn the lavish expenditure of money before election to secure office as earnestly as the stealing of it afterward; if they will make those who ask their suffrages understand that the candidate who by money demoralizes the elector is as much a criminal as the representative who takes a bribe; if they will bear in mind that spasmodic reform movements work no permanent good, but that a persistent attention to public affairs, on their part, is necessary to insure a faithful administration by their representatives; they can secure all that is possible under any law or system of laws.

Simplicity is one great requisite in the charter of a city. Without it responsibility can never be clearly and unmistakably defined and fixed. All complicated schemes which aim to secure to the minority an equal or unequal portion of the executive and administrative offices of a municipality, and so to make it share with the majority the responsibility of government, will prove failures.

PURITY OF ELECTIONS.

At its last session the Legislature adopted concurrent resolutions proposing an amendment of the Constitution relative to bribery, and favorable action by the present body is asked, so that they may be submitted to the people for their approval at the next general election. The proposed amendment relates to the corrupt expenditure of money by candidates before election to vote, and, if it shall be adopted, laws may be enacted which will, if rigidly enforced, tend to check an evil which has assumed proportions of great magnitude.

The fact that large sums of money are expended throughout the State every election is well known. Much of it must be spent for corrupting the electors. In city and in country, men are nominated to office because they have been able to purchase a majority in nominating conventions in the first instance, and because it is known they can expend large sums afterward, to secure their election. Candidates and that of their associates on the same ticket. Men not candidates, but who take an interest in public affairs, are called upon to contribute, and do contribute liberally toward securing party success. Individuals and parties are aided by moneyed corporations, which to refuse his assent to one or more of the items, while approving of others.

Mindful of the fact that the majority of the Legislature and the Executive are of opposed political parties, I refrain from discussing questions connected with the administration of the Federal Government, in which our opinions and views would widely differ; hoping that, in dealing with the home affairs of the State, we may be able to work together, earnestly and heartily, for the promotion of the general welfare of our people. JOHN T. HOFFMAN.

THE RAILROAD QUESTION.

Sinking the Fourth-avenue Track—Meeting of the Nineteenth Ward Council of Political Reform.

A regular meeting of the Nineteenth Ward Council of Political Reform was held last evening at Brevoort Hall, Fifty-fourth-street, near Third-avenue.

Mr. HOOPER C. VAN VOORST occupied the chair, and on calling the meeting to order, stated that the business of the evening was to make arrangements for the attendance of the members of the Association at a great mass-meeting of all the different railroad reform associations to be held at East Side Association Hall, on Friday evening next, 5th inst. He stated the result of an interview with Mr. VANDERBILT by the Committee appointed at a previous meeting of the Association. The Commodore, he said, had assured the Committee that so soon as the various reform organizations had decided upon a common plan, and one pronounced practicable by competent engineers, he was ready to carry out their wishes and sink the track, any demand that was deemed necessary for the interests and the convenience of the public. The mass-meeting of the various organizations on Friday evening was for the purpose of uniting in such plan as might be deemed necessary and be satisfactory to all parties.

Remarks were made by Mr. WALL and other gentlemen, identified with this reform movement, urging the importance of united action and the probability of the speedy success of their agitation of this important matter.

Resolutions in accordance with these views were unanimously adopted.

The Latest Suit Against Fisk and Gould—A Settlement.

The suit of CHARLES C. ALLEN against JAMES FISK, Jr., and JAY GOULD, for false imprisonment, the facts of which have been published in the TIMES, has been settled by a compromise with the plaintiff. The suit, it will be remembered, was brought for $50,000 damages, the sum in which Mr. ALLEN felt aggrieved for an arrest, ordered by Judge DOWLING, on complaint of the defendants and his subsequent imprisonment by the same Judge in the Tombs, being released only after the furnishing of $5,000 bail. The charge, as has been stated in the TIMES, was perjury in the giving of testimony in a suit of Messrs. JAY GOULD and JAMES FISK against one of the "Black Friday" gold operations. Mr. ALLEN's case was one of peculiar hardship, and he would have long since made an effort to vindicate his character had it not been for the fact that Mr. MARBLE, his attorney, had some cases against the same parties involving a large pecuniary interest, which it was deemed best to push first. No sooner had the suit for false imprisonment been commenced, than Messrs. FISK and GOULD began to show signs of uneasiness. A report was circulated that GOULD and FISK had left for Boston. This was soon discovered to be without foundation, as was also a report of FISK's being confined to his bed with small-pox.

The report on Sunday's TIMES that FISK was suffering from a slight illness, whose symptoms were those of the typhoid fever, was confirmed by Commissioner CHARLES ROSS, who had bravely ventured into the infected district. Nothing was done by either FISK or GOULD to contradict the rumors until Mr. DAVID DUDLEY FIELD, their counsel, called upon Sheriff BRENNAN, and assured him, on the counsel's personal responsibility, that the clients would furnish bail in $50,000 on Tuesday.

Here the matter rested, and since that time (Saturday last) the plaintiff's attorney has been approached by the friends of the defendants, and the suit compromised by an agreement to pay a sum of money considered ample, in view of the delays of litigation, and the vindication of Mr. ALLEN's character, by the acknowledgment of defendants, in being as shown the first party to offer a compromise. It is rumored on the street that $50,000 was the amount of money paid to Mr. ALLEN to drop further proceedings in the suit, and his friends are satisfied that the charges brought against him are groundless. The order countermanding the order of arrest in the hands of Mr. JUDSON JARVIS, the Sheriff's officer, and which the Sheriff was notified yesterday would be handed to him, is as follows:

SUPREME COURT, New-York City.—Charles C. Allen vs. James Fisk, Jr., and Jay Gould.—The order of arrest issued in this action, and now held by the Sheriff of the City and County of New-York, is discontinued upon the payment by the defendants to the Sheriff of the City and County of New-York of any and all fees in the service of said order, and such payment to the Sheriff and consequent countermanding of such order, the above-entitled action is discontinued without costs to either party, the matter herein having been adjusted and settled between the parties. JOSEPH J. MARRIN, Plaintiff's Attorney.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT.

IMPORTANT DECISIONS BY JUDGE WOODRUFF.

Judge WOODRUFF yesterday rendered decisions in the United States Circuit Court in the following cases:

Ellen Peck vs. John Francis et al.—Judge WOODRUFF holds in this case that the papers submitted to him are wholly insufficient to show that the plaintiffs are not entitled to costs herein. He says that as sufficient ground for withholding costs which ordinarily follow a verdict appears to be shown.

Elias H. Miller, Assignee in Bankruptcy, vs. James O'Brien, Sheriff.—In this case the Judge says: "Reduced to its simplest form, the question presented by the demurrer is, whether a Sheriff, who, after the proceedings are commenced in bankruptcy, whereon an assignee is appointed, levies executions upon and sells property which was of the bankrupt, he is liable to the assignee, notwithstanding he paid the proceeds of the sales to the plaintiffs, who received actual notice of the bankruptcy. The property had been attached by the Sheriff a few days before the proceedings in bankruptcy were instituted, and by order of the Court the property seized was sold as perishable, and the proceeds were held by the Sheriff in lieu of the goods, pending the suits, and were paid over to the suitors, and judgment and execution issued. But it is quite clear that as between the assignee in Bankruptcy and the Sheriff these circumstances are not material. The statute, in the most explicit terms, vests the attachment dissolved. In like explicit terms, it declares that the assignment to the assignee shall relate back to the commencement of proceedings in bankruptcy, and the title to all bankrupt's estate shall vest in him. This can only mean that the title of the assignee shall be vested with him in effect as if executed at the commencement of the proceedings. The sale of the property, as perishable, assuming that it was justified by order of the State Court, had no effect, except to substitute, in the hands of the Sheriff, the proceeds of sales in place of the property seized. It gave the Sheriff no authority, nor did it in no wise enlarged the power or duty of the Sheriff. When, therefore, by operation of law, the attachment is dissolved, the title of the assignee in bankruptcy was perfect, and the Sheriff was liable to pay over the proceeds of the property to him. The Sheriff had ceased to have any claim or right to withhold it. Unless, then, he is protected by the issue and levy of executions of payment of the money to the execution's creditors before he was actually notified of bankruptcy, he is still liable, and the demurrer herein must be overruled. What the executions were issued, if the property was no longer liable for the satisfaction of the judgment, is a matter of conflict between the State and Federal Courts, which both were called upon to recognize as law. The question is important, further, because the construction and effect of the bankrupt law, if thus ruled by the Sheriff, may operate very unfavorably on officers and like ministerial officers, and is accorded with our sense of justice to say that they ought not to be held liable for their acts under the execution of process done in good faith, without actual notice of any proceedings in bankruptcy against the debtor. By operation of law, the money received by the Sheriff was the money of the present plaintiff, whether the Sheriff knew it or not, and in that statement lies the whole of the plaintiff's case. The demurrer must be overruled, with leave to withdraw the demurrer and plead on the usual terms.

Daniel K. Tenney vs. Thomas G. Townsend and Fried. Noyes.—This was an action in which $[illegible] was claimed as a debt on judgment. The plaintiff was a resident of Wisconsin, while the defendant, Townsend, was a resident of New-York. It was suggested in the argument that inasmuch as the defendant was sued as a citizen of New-York, it had affirmatively to appear in the judgment of another State that the jurisdiction of the person was in part acquired, and that no presumption arose in the tribunals of this State or district that the Court of another State, however general its jurisdiction, had no jurisdiction over such a defendant. The Judge doubted that the fact of such a jurisdiction was available as a defense, and it would be no unreasonable rule which required a plaintiff, who wished to rely upon such a judgment, to take the affirmative in the very form of his declaration, and offer all the facts essential to make a judgment not only valid but conclusive. Judgment should be given for the plaintiff on the demurrer, but leave was given to the defendant to amend his pleas on the usual terms.

Allston Wilson et al. vs. John Henry Griswold.—In this case judgment was given in favor of plaintiffs on demurrer, but leave was given to the defendant to withdraw the demurrer on the usual terms.

SUPREME COURT—TRIAL TERM—PART I.—JAN. 2.

Before Judge Van Brunt and a Jury.

$250 FOR CARELESS DRIVING.

John Byrnes et al. vs. Charles Bausch.—This was an action to recover $300, the value of a horse, and $50 for medical attendance of the animal, the liability being claimed as the result of alleged carelessness on the part of defendant's servants. The wagon was passing rapidly through Division-street, in the Winter of 1868, and encountering the horse of plaintiff, the pole of the wagon ran into the horse's thigh about eighteen inches, subsequently causing his death.

The jury gave plaintiff a verdict for $250, the full amount claimed.

GENERAL CITY NEWS.

The payment of the small depositors in the Bowling-green Savings Bank will commence at the bank today. The money will be distributed from 2 to 4 o'clock by Judge HOGAN. There is about $1,500 to be given out.

Mysterious Disappearance.

The number of cases of "mysterious disappearance" recorded during the past year is unusually large, and suggests the inquiry whether we do not need in this City a "Bureau of Information," whose modus operandi shall be much more thoroughly organized, centralized and efficiently equipped in its far-reaching ramifications than anything in that way which we now possess. This is especially necessary in view of the great difficulties that parents and guardians have to encounter in their searches after lost children. One of the most inexplicable of these "disappearances" occurred on Christmas night, when a young man, named Thomas C. Hamlin, employed in a store in the City, and residing with his parents in West Hoboken, failed to join his waiting family, between all the members of which there existed the utmost cordiality and affection. His anxious father and friends have been indefatigable in their efforts to obtain a clue to his whereabouts or his fate, but without success. Hotels, lodging-houses, station-houses, hospitals, and even the institutions on the islands, have been searched in vain. As the young man had but few associates, one of whom bade him good-night at Christopher-street Ferry, on his way home, and as he had no funds, no serious habitude of any kind, his family and employers are equally at a loss to account for his sudden disappearance.

Police Trials—Serious Complaint Against a Police Sergeant.

Thirty-five complaints against Police officers were investigated by Commissioner BOSWORTH yesterday.

Patrolman ALGERNON S. ROSS, of the Twenty-second Precinct, was charged with having maltreated and clubbed DAVID SHINE, of No. 342 West Forty-seventh-street.

Serg. THOMAS N. JAMES, of the Twentieth Precinct, was arraigned on a complaint made by JOHN MCDONOUGH, residing in West Thirty-seventh-street. The complainant charged the Sergeant with assaulting him and biting off one of his fingers.

Both the above cases were referred to the Board for adjudication, as were also a number of other complaints of no public importance.

Small-Pox—A Brooklyn Patient Seeks Shelter in New-York.

Since noon on Saturday, twenty-six cases of small-pox and four deaths from the disease have been reported to the City Sanitary Inspector. On Sunday afternoon a messenger from the Brooklyn Board of Health called at the Police Central office, and reported that a patient suffering with small-pox had escaped from his residence in Graham-avenue, and had taken refuge in the house of a Mrs. [illegible], Grand-street. The Tenth Precinct Police were notified, and found the man at the house where it was ascertained he had sought shelter. The patient was removed to the Small-pox Hospital yesterday.

Criminals Sentenced in the Oyer and Terminer—The Elections Fraud Cases.

In the Court of Oyer and Terminer, yesterday, Judge INGRAHAM presiding, the following-named prisoners pleaded guilty and were sentenced:

James Delaney, three years in State Prison; Charles Marrin, three years in State Prison; Ezekiel C. Wystand, two years and six months in State Prison; John Kenevan, one year in State Prison; Patrick McCarthy, one year in State Prison; John G. Wolfe, six months in the Penitentiary; John McPaul, one year in the Penitentiary; Lewis Cole, sixty days in the Penitentiary; Wm. Burns, one year and six months in the State Prison. The crimes charged against the prisoners were grand and petit larceny.

Judge INGRAHAM took occasion to state, after the sentences had been pronounced, that the Grand Jury having adjourned for the day, the Court would also have to adjourn, and, to correct some misunderstanding, he would state that this Grand Jury was the only Grand Jury that could consider, and the Court of Oyer and Terminer the only Court

The Stock Exchange, after the New-Year Holiday, opened with much buoyancy this morning, and at strongly-advancing prices on the Railways, in which the speculation is directed with marked confidence against a continued pressing demand for Money at extra rates of Interest, either direct or in the way of commissions, on 7 ⅌ cent. ⅌ annum from day to day from the Stock Brokers. There was little or no mitigation in the pressure for loans on demand at or near the close of Bank hours, and as much as 1 ⅌ cent. commission was paid for carrying over Stocks until to-morrow. After the strong upward course of prices at the close of December, no surprise is felt at the state of the Stock market today, and the Bulls in the New-York and Western Roads express as decided opinions in favor of much higher figures as we advance into the New-Year as though Money were tending to easier and cheaper rates.

The Public Funds and the established Railway Mortgages participated in the firmness of the Stock Exchange, and the former were in very strong demand, especially for the 5-20s of 1867, and the new Five per Cent. Loan. The Central Pacific Mortgages sold at 100¼ ex dividend, and the Unionsat 91¼ @ 91½ ⅌ cent. ex dividend. The Southern State Bonds were firmer on Virginias and South Carolinas, the latter selling at 22½ ⅌ cent.

In the Gold Room the speculators for a January rise ran up the price to 109⅛@109⅜ per cent on the Treasury announcement that only $2,000,000 Gold will be offered this month. While this reason may seem to have some force, it must not be forgotten that the Secretary reduces his sales, because there is much doubt as to his ability to purchase 5-20s at or within the same rates; he still reserves the right to increase them if 5-20s should chance to fall below the price of Gold, and that he offers to pay Gold at any time for any part of the $20,000,000 United States 5-20s of 1862 called in for the 7th March. In the Afternoon Gold fell back to 109⅛. Bills on London were firm at 109½@109¾ ⅌ cent. The market is strong on the considerable settlements of the first of the New Year, and the amounts required to cover the collection of First of January Dividends for foreign account.

The extreme rise in the New-York and Western Roads, this forenoon, ranged 1½ to 2½ ⅌ cent., while later in the day, on the evidences of extreme stringency in the Money market, part of the advance was lost, but without sensibly changing the general firmness of the market. The Public Funds were ½@¾ ⅌ cent. lower than the best prices of the day on the reaction in Gold.

After the Boards broke up in the Afternoon the following quotations were made as compared with the last figures of Saturday night:

The Stock Exchange has admitted to regular dealings on the official list, $3,000,000 new Stock of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Road, under the special guarantee of 7 per cent. Interest, quarterly, of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

The Treasury Office paid out today $600,000 Gold on the January Interest on the Public Debt, making $6,450,000 since Wednesday last, when these payments were commenced.

The Banks and Banking Offices and Trust Companies were busily engaged today paying January Dividends, and a large amount, in the aggregate, was paid out, but the Money thus disbursed has not yet returned to the market for employment in Wall-street, and it will probably be two or three days before the full effect is felt.

Mr. W. T. MEREDITH withdrew from the Stock firm of W. ALEXANDER SMITH & CO. on 1st of January, which is continued by Mr. SMITH and his brother. Mr. MEREDITH forms a new house with his brother, under the style of W. T. MEREDITH & CO.

The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Company have declared a Half-Yearly Dividend of Five ⅌ cent., payable Jan. 20.

The Bowery Savings Bank has declared a Half-Yearly Dividend of Three ⅌ cent. to Depositors under $2,000, and of Two and a Half ⅌ cent. to Depositors over that sum, payable Jan. 15.

The return from the Bank of England for the week ended the 13th of December gives the following results when compared with the previous week:

Rest	£3,035,462	Increase	£8,167
Public deposits	7,127,397	Increase	320,127
Other deposits	20,954,005	Increase	1,721,849

A new banking-house has been established at No. 12 Pine-street, by Mr. B. F. ALLEN, a wealthy capitalist, formerly of DesMoines, Iowa, and Mr. WM. A. STEPHENS and Mr. HERMAN BLENNERHASSETT, lately with Messrs. GEORGE OPDYKE & Co., of this City. The firm name is that of Messrs. ALLEN, STEPHENS & Co.

The week's exports of Domestic Produce have been to the currency value of $3,190,209.

BANKING AND FINANCIAL.

☞ REINVESTMENT OF DIVIDENDS, INTEREST AND CALLED-IN FIVE-TWENTIES.

During the first three months of 1872 there will be disbursed for the redemption of Five-twenties, interest on the United States, Central Pacific and other Bonds, dividends on stocks, &c., not far from $100,000,000, a considerable portion of which will seek reinvestment.

Government Bonds at present market prices (estimating the length of time for which they are likely to run) yield but little over a per cent. on the investment, and it is now apparent that no higher rate of interest can hereafter be derived from investment in our National Securities.

The amount of really first-class and absolutely safe six per cent. Gold Bonds, which can now be had at anything less than par, is very limited. Prominent among them are the SIX PER CENT. GOLD BONDS OF THE CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD COMPANY, which we offer and recommend, believing them to be as safe as the Bonds of the Government. Less than $2,000,000 now remain unsold, and they will be rapidly taken up.

Present price 94, and accrued interest. Interest and principal payable in gold in New-York City. Interest May 1 and Nov. 1. Coupon bonds, $1,000, $500 and $100—coupon or registered.

Upward of 300 miles of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad are now completed and equipped, and the remainder will be finished within a few months; when we believe these Bonds will take rank in market price with the CENTRAL PACIFICS, now, and for a long time past, above par, and current in all the money markets of the world.

We buy and sell, as usual, GOVERNMENT and CENTRAL PACIFIC BONDS, and receive them in exchange for CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO BONDS. Accounts of Banks and others received, on which we allow interest at the rate of four per cent. Orders for Investment Stocks and Bonds executed at the Stock Exchange.

FISK & HATCH.

HARVEY FISK, A. S. HATCH.

HEAVY SALES OF NORTHERN PACIFIC 7.30 GOLD BONDS

Were made during December, which shows that these Securities are steadily increasing in popularity.

Exchanges of 5-20s and other Securities for NORTHERN PACIFICS have also been heavy in amount, the yearly income profit to the parties exchanging being from 30 to 40 per cent.

The high character of these Bonds is permanently established, and holders are fully protected, not only by the ample security afforded in the mortgage, but by a most rigid and economical administration of the affairs of the Company.

The Bonds have thirty years to run, are exempt from United States taxation, are issued in denomination from $100 to $10,000, and are secured not only by the road and its earnings, but by 50,000,000 acres of land, worth at Government valuation $125,000,000.

No Bond could be more secure.

JAY COOKE & CO., New-York, Philadelphia and Washington.

☞ UNION PACIFIC BONDS.

The undersigned offer for sale, at the current market rates, the First Mortgage and Land Grant Bonds of this Company.

The First Mortgage Bonds, due 1896, bear the same rate of interest as United States Five-twenties, (Six per Cent. gold, free of tax;) they are a first lien upon the Road and its equipment.

The Land Grant Bonds are a first mortgage upon the remaining 11,600,000 (11-100 acres of land belonging to the Company, the proceeds of all sales of which are solely applied to the redemption of the Land Grant Bonds. The total sales of land to Oct. 31, 1871, were 400,141 20-100 acres, for $2,080,621 62, averaging $5 20 per acre. The net earnings for the first six months (of the third fiscal year) ending Nov. 1, 1871, were $2,459,219 94—more than twice the amount of the interest upon the First Mortgage and Land Grant Bonds, and about three times the amount of the interest upon the First Mortgage Bonds. The annual interest upon the First Mortgage Bonds is $1,634,370 gold; the annual interest upon the remaining Land Grant Bonds is $650,220 currency.

MORTON, BLISS & CO., No. 20 Broad-street, New-York.

☞ ST. JOSEPH AND DENVER CITY RAILROAD COMPANY'S FIRST MORTGAGE SINKING FUND LAND GRANT BONDS,

BEARING EIGHT PER CENT. (8 p. c.) INTEREST, PAYABLE IN GOLD, FREE OF TAX, AND IN DENOMINATIONS OF $1,000, $500, AND $100, can be obtained from the undersigned, or through the principal banks and bankers throughout the United States.

The attractive features of these securities are recognized in the fact that, although they have been but a short time on the market, they are nearly all absorbed, and but a small amount are now for sale.

They combine a perfect security with a liberal rate of interest. This interest account is made light for, and easily borne by, the Company, through the operation of the Sinking Fund created from sales of the Company's land, which in many cases draw interest at the rate of ten (10) per cent. per annum. The security behind them is ample in every particular, as they constitute a first and only mortgage on a trunk line of railroad which will soon connect the City of St. Joseph, Mo., (an important railway centre,) with the Union Pacific Railroad at Fort Kearney, materially shortening the distance between the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. In addition to this, the bonds have further security in the fact that there is included in the Mortgage the Company's magnificent Lands, amounting to 1,600,000 acres, known to be among the best in the United States. The Mortgage Indenture prohibits the sale of these Lands at less than Four (4) Dollars per acre, and payable to the Trustees under the Mortgage, for the clear and express purpose of retiring these Bonds. The amount thus realized exceeds the entire amount of Bonds which can be issued, and leaves the road, property and franchises free.

The Bonds have thirty years to run, with interest at Eight per Cent., free of tax, payable in February and August in each year.

Both principal and interest are payable in gold.

The principal in New-York. The interest in either New-York, London or Frankfort-on-the Main, at the option of the holder, without notice, and in the gold currency of the country in which they are presented. They are coupons or registered.

Trustees—Farmers' Loan and Trust Company.

The present price of these Bonds is 97½ and accrued interest in currency, from Aug. 15, 1871. But they are receivable at par and accrued interest in payment for lands sold by the Company. The right is reserved to advance the present selling price without notice.

Maps, circulars, documents and full information furnished on application.

Though acting as agents for the sale of the loan, our firm buy and sell in their regular business the bonds of the St. Joseph and Denver City Railroad Company, those of the Eastern Division eight per cent. (8s.) recently placed by us at 97½, being now quoted at from 101½ to 102½ and accrued interest.

To the Gentleman that prints the Times:

After papa had given us our New-Year's presents, this morning, which made us so happy, he told us about the Society that takes care of the street children, who have no parents, or homes or good food and clothes. He saw a letter you printed of Annie Andrews from Albany, and sending a dollar for the starving children, and he asked if we did not want to add something to it, and I'm sure we do. So we send three dollars for Mr. Beach, which please hand to him.

From LUCY, BELLA AND KITTY.
THIRTY-FOURTH-STREET, NEW-YORK.

Among the many curious transactions of the Ring which are still unexplained, we may include the amount said to have been paid to Mr. J. McBride Davidson for safes. He figures in the accounts for $104,247 72—a very pretty little sum for safes. We have heard many explanations of Mr. Davidson's charges, and among them are these: (1.) Mr. Davidson only received a very small part of the sum actually charged in his name, although the full amount was undoubtedly drawn, and had to be paid by the citizens; (2.) Several of the Judges (to say nothing of other officials) were supplied with safes for their private houses, at the expense of the tax-payers. One of the Judges—Barnard—has returned his safe since the exposures which we have made. Such is a part of the story which reaches us; the other part will keep till another day. Mr. Davidson has been before the Grand Jury, and we believe these gentlemen are satisfied that Mr. Davidson never received the money which is put down to his credit.!

Under the head of Staten Island news, we published a paragraph on Sunday, which we now know to be full of errors. It purported to describe a "scene" which had occurred between "Supervisor Mistuen and John C. Thompson," and the latter was made to enact the (at present) very popular part of an "injured innocent." The fact is that Mr. R. B. Mistuen has been for some time endeavoring to bring to an end a corrupt organization in Staten Island, modeled on the famous Tammany Ring; and in this work he has naturally provoked the opposition of all the persons interested in keeping that organization alive. Mr. J. C. Thompson is among the gentlemen who do not admire the efforts of "interlopers" like Mr. Mistuen, and the paragraph to which we refer is one of the fruits of the attempts he and his friends are making to discredit the sincere reformers. Mr. Mistuen's character stands too high to be affected by these stray shafts, and we hope he will take his share of misrepresentation, as other people are obliged to do, with patience, and without allowing it to drive him from the field.

On the principle that reform, like charity, should begin at home, the new Speaker of Assembly, Mr. Henry Smith, has resolved to keep the officers of the Assembly within reasonable limits, and to suppress old jobs rather than to give any encouragement to new ones. Another promising feature which occurred yesterday was the introduction by Senator James O'Brien (who was elected on the Reform ticket, and is pledged to do his best for the people) of a bill for the repeal of the Erie Classification act. This is the first blow at James Fisk, Jr., and his fellow-swindler, Jay Gould, and we have no doubt it will be vigorously followed up. There is no greater stain on our local history than that caused by the theft of the Erie Railroad by Fisk and his confederate, and the sooner it is wiped away, the better for our commercial credit all the world over. Senator Woodin has been chosen President of the Senate pro tem.—another excellent stroke for reform.

It must be a relief to the overburdened consciences of Sweeny and Fields to find Ex-Judge Hilton so perfectly willing to take the entire responsibility for the reckless expenditure of the late Park Commission. Charitable people had always the excuse ready for Hilton that he was probably misled by his astute and unprincipled associates, and that he became a party to transactions whose corrupt nature he only discovered after the results were fully apparent. This excuse can serve him no longer. In his letter, inserted in the TIMES of Monday, he explicitly asserts that every dollar expended during his connection with the Department of Parks "was honestly paid out upon the work under our charge, and that the City has, in all cases, received full value for the expenditure." Coming immediately after the publication of our figures relating to the City Parks, this is pretty strong. Does Hilton expect people to believe, for example, that in paying at the rate of $15,597 per acre—or seventy per cent. above the rate at which the old Board laid out the Central Park—for the surface improvements upon the ground about the City Hall, they have got value for their money? Or, does he suppose that anybody can possibly conclude that the money expended on the Battery was spent on honest work, when it amounted to $26,600 per acre, or nearly three times the proportionate cost of Central Park? Finally, is Ex-Judge Hilton prepared to repeat, in any reasonable company, the assertion that $3,847 for the Beach-street triangle was not a shameful piece of extravagance? Let him try the experiment, and see whether his auditors can refrain from laughing at him.

The Governor's Message.

The message of Gov. Hoffman is a very elaborate document, and it is as forcible as could be expected under the circumstances. A Governor addressing a Legislature with a three-fourths majority opposed to his own party, elected on issues growing out of legislation which he had approved, and for which the people justly hold him largely responsible, does not occupy an inspiring position. He disappoints no one when he shrinks from discussing the questions of the hour, and seeks refuge in generalities concerning the remote and more quiet regions of constitutional amendments.

In regard to New-York City matters, the Governor, like every one else, is a Reformer. He has come to a clear understanding of grave defects in the present charter, and points them out. The chief of them he deems to be the want of absolute power in the Mayor to remove the heads of Departments, and the extension of the terms of the latter beyond the term of the former. The criticism is sound; the only pity is that it did not occur to his Excellency to make it last year, when the evils he now detects were very considerably aggravated, with his consent. The Governor's suggestions in regard to a new charter are briefly: a Mayor with full power of appointment and removal of all heads of Departments, except the Police; an early election; removal of the Mayor by the Governor; a Police Board of three, appointed, one by the Mayor, one by the Chief-Judge of the Court of Common Pleas, and one by the Chief-Judge of the Superior Court, with power of removal by the Governor for cause; full publication of transactions and accounts; one Board of Aldermen, with minority representation, "if any plan for it can be devised;" no increase of debt without consent of the people, or else an absolute veto by the Mayor on any such increase; salaries, not fees, for officials; a remedy in Courts for tax-payers against abuses of trust, and prohibition of acceptance of any State or Federal office by an officer of the City Government.

It will be seen that these recommendations include many good ones to which we have already called public attention. They differ from those of the Committee of Seventy in this—that while the Governor's plan proposes to give the appointment of heads of Departments to the Mayor, who represents only a numerical majority of the voters, the Committee of Seventy propose that heads of Departments shall be chosen by the minority representation method, by a Board of Aldermen themselves elected in the same way. The Committee agree with the Governor that a Board of Aldermen has but one duty, "to manage the affairs of the Corporation," and they deem that those affairs can be best managed by securing representation to the minority throughout all the Departments.

In regard to the specific abuses in New-York City, the Governor is chary of expressing decided convictions. He "recommends to the consideration of the Legislature the subject of alleged abuses under the referee system in our Courts, with a view of providing by law for such abuses as may be found to exist." This is putting very mildly that enormous and shocking evil, the corruption of the Judiciary. Gov. Hoffman has himself been upon the Bench, and as Judge and lawyer must know the great dangers, open and secret, which flow from this source. He should be the most keenly sensitive to even its reputed existence. If he is so, he has succeeded in repressing his feelings to a degree which the people will fail to appreciate. Concerning the outrages by the Quarantine and Harbor officials, the Governor has been so unfortunate as to remain without specific information. Of the load of debt laid fraudulently on the City by the ad interim auditors, he thinks that the fault is not so much with the act authorizing it, (which it will be remembered he signed,) as with the men who made up the Board of Audit; but he forgets that the act designated the men, who were at the time of its passage no less known to be scoundrels by those who knew them well than they now are.

On the subject of street processions, the Governor's views will naturally be received with interest. He contents himself with recalling the events attending the 12th of July, pointing out that general good temper had prevented any such attendant circumstances in the case of former processions, and leaves the subject to the Legislature, with the recommendation that any laws on the subject, should "secure equal privileges to all men, of whatever religion, of whatever politics, of whatever race, color, or creed."

The recommendations of the Governor, with reference to general State policy, are quite numerous. Among them is one calling on the Legislature to exert more caution in chartering savings banks, and renewing some suggestions made in 1869, to the effect that greater deliberation and publicity should be required in these matters. But this only reaches the surface of the difficulty. The proposition to limit the amount of deposits from any single person goes little deeper, and such a prohibition would be easily evaded. The most immediate and promising remedy would seem to be a general law, and the cessation of all special charters. The Governor also recommends the continuation of low tolls on the canals, which he reports as more prosperous than last year; the removal of disabilities of aliens relating to real estate; the modification of the laws for detention of witnesses, so that imprisonment may be limited to a fixed time; requiring County Judges to summarily investigate all cases of confinement for alleged lunacy; the creation by law of the crime of murder in the second degree; the amendment of the Eight-hour law, so as to give laborers employed by the State full pay for eight hours work; the repeal of the law allowing towns to bond themselves for railroads; and careful attention to the report of the Tax Commissioners (Mr. Wells, Chairman) on the revision of the taxes, in order to secure the taxation of personal property and the release of evidences of debt, particularly bonds and mortgages, and of manufacturing industry.

The Governor discusses elaborately the necessity of amendments to the State Constitution, and proposes a Commission of thirty-two, equally divided between the two great parties, as more likely than a convention to devise propositions that the people will approve. It is not possible to discuss the Governor's suggestions in this direction at this time, but they are deserving of candid and respectful attention.

The Taxable Resources of the City.

The report of Hon. David A. Wells on the finances of New-York City, sent to the Legislature yesterday in a special message from the Governor, presents little in regard to our liabilities which was not known before. The figures submitted by Mr. Wells are identical with those embodied in the report of Controller Green, and dated "at the close of business, Dec. 16, 1871." We are indebted, however, to Mr. Wells for the revival of a highly-important aspect of our resources—the taxable value of real estate. In the very able report upon local taxation submitted to the Legislature in February last, and drawn up by Messrs. D. A. Wells, Edwin Dodge, and Geo. W. Cuyler, there is much suggestive matter which can at this moment be very seasonably considered. In his yesterday's report, Mr. Wells showed that the real estate valuation of the City for 1871 represented only about forty per cent. of its actual value. Instead of being something short of $770,000,000, the true valuation of the real estate of New-York would not be less than $2,000,000,000. Our gross liabilities, therefore, of one hundred millions, instead of representing a mortgage of thirteen per cent. upon the real estate of the City, ought to be equivalent to a mortgage of only five per cent. As pointed out by Mr. Wells in his earlier report, the provisions of the existing law are sufficiently explicit on the subject of official valuation. The following are the essential clauses bearing on the responsibility of assessors: "All real estate liable to taxation shall be estimated and assessed by the assessors at its full and true value, as they would appraise the same in payment of a just debt due from a solvent debtor." "Every assessor who shall willfully swear false in taking said oath shall be deemed guilty of and liable to the penalties of willful and corrupt perjury."

This law, as everybody knows, is simply a dead letter in this City. Were the undervaluation made perfectly uniform—that is to say, were all New-York property entered on the books of the Tax Commissioner at forty per cent. of its actual value—the only special grievance in the case would be the eluding of a legal proportion of the State tax. Mr. Wells refers to the strife between the different Boards of County officials to run down the valuation of property to the lowest practical figure for the purpose indicated, and this will, doubtless, account for some part of the discrepancy between the nominal and real value of City real estate. But a much more potent element in the calculation is the fact that the Ring owed a great part of their strength among local capitalists to their power of applying a perfectly arbitrary standard to the valuation of real estate. The man who could be depended on to sign a whitewashing report, to lend his name to some corporate swindle upon the public purse, or either financially or socially to give the Ring leaders a much desired varnish of respectability, was pretty sure to be let off easily in the matter of assessments.

The fact that probably thirty per cent. of the real estate of New-York absolutely escapes taxation at the expense of the remainder, shows what a splendid field for corrupt bargains was here presented, and how unlimited were the opportunities for oppression enjoyed by Nathaniel Sands and his associates at the bidding of their masters. Up to 1868, Philadelphia enjoyed a similar distinction of having laws relating to assessments which were not executed. When the work of revision was intrusted to a Board not susceptible to corrupt influences, the valuation rose in one year from one hundred and sixty odd millions to four hundred and forty-five and one-half millions. The remedy proposed by Mr. Wells a fortnight ago, for the gross abuse of our system, was "a Board of Commissioners, whose tenure of office should be made as permanent and as far removed from partisan influences as possible; and who, clothed with all proper authority, and supported by the law officers of the State, should be required to practically enforce the laws, by providing for revaluations of real property, when the same are evidently defective and erroneous; and by prosecuting, to the full extent of the law, all derelictions of duty on the part of the assessors." Some provision corresponding to this ought to form a portion of the new charter. The people are, further, entitled to demand that assessors who have grossly swindled them in the past, should be brought to account under the laws which they have violated.

Revival of the "Sick Man."

The text of the instructions lately transmitted by the Sultan of Turkey to his Grand Vizier has been made public. It furnishes an instructive example of the wisdom of occasionally revising popular opinions founded on past facts, in order that we may see how far they harmonize with present circumstances. The popular opinion about Turkey is that, whereas she was once famous for barbaric grandeur and military power, she has grown poor and weak without becoming less barbarous, and that, moribund today, she may be nationally extinct to-morrow. If, it is thought, the Turks under the long line of Emperors beginning with Othman were infidel and uncivilized, they were at least rich and strong. The diadem of Amurath and Bajazet came down to their successors with increased splendor. The Mohammed who took Constantinople, and shattered the Roman Empire of the East, was outshone by Soliman the Magnificent. Yet the grandson and great-grandson of that potentate signalized their ascent of the throne by murdering all their brothers, and this was in a manner typical of the popular notion of Turkey, which, from the time of Shakespeare and "Good Queen Bess," is supposed either to have stood still, or to have "progressed backward."

Partly from old prejudices—for Christendom has not yet quite forgotten the Crusades—partly from imperfect means of information, and partly because it has been to the interests of powerful governments to magnify her defects, and to suggest excuses for her dismemberment, Turkey has not stood high in the esteem of the Western nations; and doubtless, to some extent, has suffered unjustly in consequence. For, after all said and done, the Turks are a fine race. We may prefer the Cross to the Crescent, and yet afford to admit this. From the time those predatory and adventurous Oghusian Tartars set up their tents in Asia Minor, their descendents have shown virtues that many who have hated the Ottoman as heartily as Othello might have done well to copy. They have been brave, temperate, faithful to their convictions, and, as a rule, in their private relations, singularly honest and truthful. The commonly received hypothesis is that their indolence, lack of knowledge, and defective sympathy with the spirit of the age are sure to weaken the Turks, relatively to other contiguous peoples, more and more as the years roll on. Now the letter to which we have referred, dictated by Abdul-Aziz to his chief Minister, awakens some reasonable doubts on this point.

The Sultan sets out by the statement that he is profoundly anxious to elevate and improve his country by every means in his power. The subject, he says, is constantly in his thoughts, and he is resolved that all his efforts shall tend to promote the prosperity of the Empire, and to develop its wealth, by giving a strong impulse to commerce and industry. He perceives the vast importance, to this end, of multiplying means of communication, and urges the energetic increase and improvement of railroads in a way that, coming from Turkey, sounds almost startling. The existing roads in Roumelia and Anatolia are to be at once completed and then extended. Instant attention is to be paid to the improvement of river navigation throughout the Empire. Suitable steamers are to be procured, as soon as possible, to establish a transport service on such streams as shall be found, by competent engineers, to be navigable. Connections are to be regularly established between the railroads and rivers; and various other suggestions are made, and orders given, looking to the extension of commerce and the augmentation of the national resources. His Majesty has plainly, apart from this question of transit, been making a study of political economy. It is his desire, he affirms, to see "as great a reduction as may be effected in the cost price of the industrial products of Turkey, so as to facilitate the purchase and export which their good qualities will command." To help this on, he has issued orders that capital "in all suitable cases" shall be advanced to manufacturers and merchants. "In order that no encouragement shall be withheld from the different branches of commerce and industry in the Empire."

All this, heralding as it does a powerful impetus for Turkish industry and productiveness, is important and interesting. There is not the least doubt that, with her soil, climate, and other advantages, Turkey can produce and sell to the rest of the world vastly more than she has hitherto done; and this, with the system of internal improvements projected by the Sultan, will enable the Turks to take and pay for a correspondingly greater amount of the products of other nations. In its commercial aspects, therefore, the news of this movement is significant. It is, however, in its social and political aspects, its relation to the great progressive waves of the nineteenth century, that this sign of awakening energy is most striking. A few years ago, the world would have expected such an indication from almost any other quarter, and from almost any other person, rather than a Sultan of the Ottoman Empire.

Early Hours.

Now that the festivities of Christmas and New-Year's are fairly over, the social energies that have been concentrated on preparations for those important events will be diverted to the usual Winter recreations of fashion. To be sure, for a time we shall sadly miss the opera; yet perhaps for that very reason private entertainments will be all the more numerous and brilliant. Public balls will certainly be fewer than formerly, the majority of them having been hitherto given and attended by a class of the community who will this year find themselves in poor trim for such festivities. It is already certain that the flaming splendors of the American ball will be denied us, nor is it likely that the R. B. Connolly Coterie will care to exhibit their diamonds (if, indeed, they have any longer diamonds to exhibit) in the Academy as of yore. It will be a good omen, indeed, for New-York society, when these flashy and vulgar assemblies have fallen back into their native obscurity. Social demoralization was to a great extent a necessary attendant of political corruption, and it may fairly be hoped that reform in the latter respect will be followed by a corresponding improvement in the former.

Among other usages of the present that might profitably be changed, we trust to see a return to more seasonable hours. The practice of dancing all night, or at least far into the early morning hours, is not only extremely hurtful to health, but destructive of the very pleasure at which it aims. Dancing, like everything else, when carried to excess, palls on its most ardent votaries, and the evening's amusement is poorly purchased at the cost of next day's headaches and languors. It is gratifying to note that a step in the right direction has already been taken by people of established position. The custom is gaining ground of noting on cards of invitation, the hours when the entertainment is to begin and end, these being in all at least three hours earlier than has hitherto been usual. What are called "afternoon germans," a custom imported, we believe, from Washington, beginning at 5 P. M. and lasting until 10, are also becoming popular. Without entering into the question of the healthfulness of dancing in itself, it cannot certainly be gainsaid that so long as our young people find in this exercise their chief social relaxation, it is better they should dance early than late. If our ladies wish to preserve their bright eyes and blooming complexions, for which they are justly renowned, they ought certainly to make seasonable hours the rule of this and all succeeding Winters.

The Charter and Our Charities.

There are certain important features in the charter proposed by the Committee of Seventy, relating to our public and private charities, which deserve careful consideration before they are incorporated in our organic law. In estimating the bearing of these provisions, the Legislature must always consider that the governing power in this City is now, and is likely to be for a long course of years, the Irish Catholic constituency. The ignorant Wards of this City will probably continue to furnish the preponderance of voters, and the influential body among them will be the Irish Catholics, led by cunning demagogues, who are indifferent to any faith or principle, but who use the masses for their own ambitious purposes. If, in the face of the recent tremendous uprising of the intelligent classes, the head thief and swindler of the Tammany Ring, with all his offenses rank before heaven, could be elected to the Senate of the State of New-York by ten thousand majority, we may be sure that when the moral and well-to-do community have again fallen back into their old indifference, smaller Tweeds and representatives of these classes will fill our City offices as heretofore. Numbers govern, and the Irish Catholics with their allies must control the City. Minority representation may indeed lessen this evil, but cannot wholly remove it.

With this prospect before us, how does the new charter leave certain charities which have long been trusted by the Protestant portion of the community?

All these institutions, many of them having charge of great numbers of the destitute and semi-criminal young, and doing a service to the City such as our own public and official charities have never accomplished, are made directly dependent on the future "Board of Charities and Correction." It is well known that the present Board of Charities, which (though containing some most respectable Protestant members) is clearly and directly under the Irish Catholic rule, has had it for its great ambition to swallow up Protestant institutions of the character of the "House of Refuge," the "Juvenile Asylum," "Home of the Friendless," and others. This long-cherished project is apparently to be finally carried out through the unconscious agency of the Committee of Seventy.

According to the new charter, whenever a semi-public Protestant institution of charity—such as the "Juvenile Asylum," for instance—which has done an excellent work for many years, partly through State aid and partly by private assistance, applies to the future Board of Aldermen for the apportionment of public moneys to which they are entitled by law, they must first be inspected and approved by the "Commissioners of Charities." Now any one who knows such Boards, as they have always been constituted by popular rule in this City, must know that they are not half so competent to judge of the economy and management of charities as the private Boards themselves of such institutions. In the future government of this Metropolis—if this charter becomes law—these Commissioners will be five in number, of whom one will be appointed by the Mayor, and therefore must represent the dominant political and religious influence of the City. Among the other four, under minority representation, the Republicans and Protestants will have certainly one, and may have two. The majority of the Board must represent the majority in the City. All will represent political parties, and will be governed in their management of charities by political considerations.

The only respectable Board of Charities the City ever enjoyed, it should be remembered, was the one preceding the present—one of the old and much-abused "Commissions," which was to a degree independent of party and the popular will. In the case we have supposed, the Board of Charities could immediately interfere in the method of management of the Juvenile Asylum. They would have the power practically to carry out one of the defeated bills of legislation of the Ring—Senator Norton's bill in favor of "Hereditary Religion"—and cut off all Protestant instruction to the little waifs who are sheltered in the Asylum. If any of the modes of discipline or the ideas inculcated should seem to this future Board of Charities too "advanced," they have at once the power to prohibit them by refusing their approval to the appropriation, and without their favorable report the Board of Aldermen are not permitted to appropriate the money. It may be replied by the framers of the instrument, that such charities can immediately escape such inspection, and be independent of this Board of Commissioners, by declining to accept public moneys.

But it should be remembered that large charities, such as the Juvenile Asylum, the House of Refuge, and several others, doing so important and extensive a work of prevention or reformation, could never be supported by private subscriptions alone. Experience shows that the contributions of the community to benevolent objects only amount to a certain sum annually, and the very extended and permanent works of beneficence must have public support. Moreover, these societies belong to the "moral police" of the community, and claim a legitimate support from public taxation.

We should fear that these provisions of the proposed charter would be either to Romanize our Protestant charities, or to cut them up by the roots. The provisions of the new charter which require tabulated statements of the various charities receiving public moneys to be filed in the Commissioners' office, so that the workings of each can be compared, and the beneficiaries can be prevented from imposing upon the public, seem to us eminently wise, as well as the requirement that the City should have power at any time to send their paupers, defective or sick, to these various institutions without charge. To render all charities receiving public aid dependent entirely on this future Board of Charities, seems to us a dubious and perilous provision.

Our Singular Library.

No great City of the same size and age is so poor in attractions for the sight-seer as this. We have no picture-gallery, and only the germ of a museum. Indeed, almost the only edifice of interest which a New-Yorker can take a country cousin to see is the Astor Library. Our people have, therefore, learnt to take a special pride in this institution, and its existence is a source of satisfaction to thousands who never enter its doors. These persons will probably hear with regret that the library is in a state almost of pauperism. The available income for expenditure on books does not amount to more than five thousand dollars a year. It needs no argument to prove how utterly inadequate such a sum is for the maintenance of a great library. It is far below that which numbers of wealthy men spend on private collections, almost confined to a single branch of study. The consequence of this poverty has necessarily been that the Astor has for some years past remained in a condition almost of stagnation. Each year it falls more and more behind. It is not merely that modern writers of ephemeral character are sought in vain, but that important works of enduring reputation are not forthcoming. Complain to the librarian about the want, and he will readily admit that they ought to be there, and will deplore their absence, but adds that "there is no money." It is of such very great importance that a population amounting to two millions of persons should have the power of consulting a fine collection of books, that we hope soon to see some active steps taken by our leading men to devise a plan to place the Astor on a more satisfactory footing. It could surely never have been intended by its munificent founder that it should become a positive misfortune to this City. Yet, as matters stand at present, it undoubtedly bids fair to prove so.

The Astor Library has come to be regarded as Astor property, a possession peculiar to that family, with which no outsider must interfere. The result is, of course, that no movement, public or private, has been taken to increase its usefulness. Now, it is impossible that Mr. Astor could have supposed when he endowed the institution, that he was bestowing upon it means to provide adequately for the literary wants of such a City as this was likely to become; and it is hard to imagine that he, who made so fine a beginning, should not have been ready and willing to permit all others interested in such a work to contribute to extend its usefulness. Among our citizens there are so many men envious for the public good, that we cannot but doubt that, if they will take this matter in hand and consult with the founder's son, who has also himself been a liberal donor to the institution, they will arrive at some scheme by which its usefulness may be extended. A suggestion lately made that persons should be invited to give or bequeath collections, their names being commemorated by rooms called after them, containing their picture or bust, seems to us a good one. But gifts of collections are useless unless buildings can be provided for them, and the money for this extra accommodation must first be secured.

Had Mr. Astor never founded the library, we cannot doubt that New-York would today have possessed a far finer one. Her wealthy sons would surely have come forward with gift and bequest to secure for their fellow-citizens literary advantages second to none on this continent. The Boston Library is advancing with giant strides. The Peabody Institute at Baltimore is already spending ten thousand dollars a year on books alone, and will probably soon expend a larger sum. It is open from 9 to 4, and again from 8 to 10 in the evening, while the Astor is only open from 10 to 4, because the lighting and extra attendants which the opening in the evening would entail is quite beyond the means of the very poor library of this very rich City. If the general public here are not given to literary pursuits—and that they are indifferent to them it is impossible to suppose—they nevertheless require good work from those who write for them in newspapers, magazines, and reviews; and good literary work can no more be turned out without a fine library than that of a clever artisan without tools. The library of the British Museum may be seen in every page of Froude and Macaulay, and very many of Charles Dickens' hours were passed in the same hive of brains.

MINOR TOPICS.

Gov. Hoffman recommends the Legislature to give immediate attention to the request of Controller Green for some provision to enable him to raise money to meet the revenue bonds maturing in January, as well as other expenditures for the first four months of the year, at present absolutely unprovided for. It is with a feeling of relief that every citizen will feel for the first time in several years, that no powers with which the Legislature can possibly invest the Controller will be in any danger of being abused. Mr. Green must have immediate power to negotiate either long or short bonds with which to replenish the empty Treasury. The greatly-improved terms on which he will be able to do this will be the most expressive testimony that could be given to the beneficial influence of his administration upon the City credit. In whatever light we view it, the placing of an honest man at the head of the financial administration of the City is equivalent to hundreds of thousands saved upon the year's expenditure.

At the meeting of the Nineteenth Ward Council of Political Reform, yesterday evening, Judge Van Voorhis was able to make the highly gratifying announcement that Mr. Vanderbilt had signified his willingness to sink the track of the Fourth-avenue Railroad to any distance that was deemed necessary for the interests and convenience of the public. In his conduct of this eminently successful and important movement in favor of railroad reform, Judge Van Voorhis has displayed all those qualities of energy, ability, and tact which have so uniformly distinguished his public and professional career. Among the citizens of the Nineteenth Ward, there is none more public spirited or more desirous of carrying out local reforms than Judge Hoorbe C. Van Voorhis.

Brigham Young is a prisoner in one of his own houses, in the custody of a United States Marshal, on a charge of murder. Bail was refused by Judge McKean, though the large amount of half a million was mentioned. The Mormon prophet has surrendered himself under an indictment returned against him by the Grand Jury in September last. The charge is that in 1857 Brigham Young instructed one Hickman and two others, to murder a man in the Echo Cañon, and to deliver to him the money found on the person of their victim. The instructions are said to have been followed to the letter, and the bones of the murdered man were recently discovered in the spot indicated by Hickman after his arrest by the United States authorities.

The people of the United States enter on the new year with that comfortable feeling which belongs only to economical persons, who are not only able but willing to pay their debts. Their ledgers show that since March 4, 1869, the public debt has been decreased $281,024,657, and they enjoy the consciousness that this unprecedented discharge of national obligations has been going on while the taxes have been steadily and appreciably lowered. Contrast this state of matters with the reckless increase of the debt of the City, under Democratic rule, and then estimate at its value the partisan clamor about the extravagance of the Republican National Administration.

Rochester was last night the scene of one of those outbreaks of violence which in the Northern States are confined to the ignorant Irish. A mob of this class undertook to take out of prison and hang a negro, who was confined on the charge of committing an outrage on the person of a little girl—a horrible crime, but one which is disgustingly familiar to the readers of Police reports, and which negroes do not at all monopolize. The Police seem to have acted with unusual stupidity, and the crowd became so great that the military were called in to defend the jail. They were stoned, and fired into the crowd, killing two persons and wounding two others. The whole affair is a shocking exhibition of those possibilities of mob violence which exist in every city where an ignorant foreign class has gained much hold.

It is a matter of congratulation for the people that, as our Albany correspondent reports, the Legislature this year is marked by the predominance of men of mature age. It is unfortunately true that among the most unscrupulous members of that body for several years past, young men have been numerous, who brought to the capital neither the dignity of manhood nor the innocence of youth. Voluble, reckless, and frivolous, their speech and behaviour were simply disgraceful.

The State Controller has to deal with smaller amounts than our magnificent municipal swindlers have familiarized us with. The entire State debt is less than one-third that of the City of New-York, being only $35,462,702. Yet signs of the last Democratic Legislature are evident here also, in the appearance of a deficiency of $2,237,934 for this year, and an estimated one of some four millions for next year, besides sundry demands for "extraordinary" work on the canals and the State Capitol.

Proposed Religious Amendments to the United States Constitution.

The Reformed Church, on Eleventh-street, between Sixth and Seventh avenues, was tolerably well filled, last evening, to hear speeches from Prof. R. W. Sloan, D. D., Rev. Mr. McAllister, General Secretary of the National Association, and others, in advocacy of amending the Constitution of the United States so as to recognize the existence of a Supreme Being and the fact that this is a Christian country, the speakers deprecating the fact that the Constitution, as originally framed and as it now stands, did not and does not recognize these truths.

THE WORK OF REFORM.

The Old Board of Aldermen Threaten War.

Meeting of the Committee of Seventy Last Evening.

Election of Officers—The New Charter Nearly Ready—Proceedings of the New Assistant Aldermen—The Civil Justices.

The Old Board of Aldermen on the War Path.

It was generally understood that the adjourned caucus of the old Board of Aldermen was to have been held last evening at one of the many Tammany clubs. The caucus, however, if held at all, was religiously kept a secret. The TIMES reporters, though actively engaged in endeavoring to ferret out what took place, met with evasion and rebuff at every point. Ex-Alderman COMAR was not at home up to a late hour, and his associates appear to have suddenly disappeared from view. One cause for this forget himself as to mostly assert that the old Board had determined to fight it out with the new Board, but he was so intoxicated as to render his statement inoreliable.

Committee of Seventy—Election of Officers—The New Charter.

At 8 o'clock last evening, Mr. JAMES M. BROWN, Vice-Chairman, called the Committee of Seventy to order, and announced that under the rules it was necessary to elect a new board of officers. He then read a communication from Hon. WILLIAM F. HAVEMEYER, the Chairman of the Committee, stating that he would not be a candidate for re-election. Notwithstanding the [illegible] representation of Mr. HAVEMEYER, he was unanimously re-elected Chairman; Mr. HENRY M. BROWN was unanimously chosen Vice-Chairman, and Mr. SIMON STERNE was unanimously chosen Secretary, in the place of Mr. ROSWELL D. HAYES, who is now traveling in the South; Mr. EMIL SAUER, of the Germania Bank, was re-elected Treasurer; Mr. WILLIAM RADDE, a member of the new Board of Aldermen, tendered his resignation as a member of the Committee, which was accepted, and Alderman RADDE was congratulated by several members upon his entrance into public life. Hon. EDWARD SALOMON, Chairman of the Committee on Legislation, read a report from that Committee in relation to the new charter for the City, and announced that the document would soon be ready for the final action of the Executive Committee, and for presentation to the Legislature.

After a very general discussion of the report, the Committee adjourned.

The New Assistant Aldermen—Mr. Jos. P. Dempsey Elected Clerk—Ineffectual Attempt to Elect a President.

The Police wisely retained possession of the Chambers of the Boards of Aldermen and Assistant Aldermen after the adjournment of the two Boards on Monday last, in consequence of the scenes of violence and uproar which took place; and, consequently, when the new Board of Assistant Aldermen desired to meet at noon yesterday, the Chamber was immediately placed at their disposal, the Police, however, continuing to guard the doors, and permitting none but members of the Board and their friends to enter. The public door was soon afterward closed, and the lobbyers quickly filled.

Mr. SCHWARTZ called the Board to order, and all the members answered to their names, Mr. GEISS officiating as Clerk pro tem.

A motion was at once made that the Board take a recess for one hour. This was opposed by Mr. GALVIN. "The Board," he said, "was ready to organize by choosing a presiding officer, and they had better do it at once."

Mr. ROBINSON offered a resolution that CHAS. C. PINCKNEY, Eleventh District, be elected President of the Board, and Jos. P. DEMPSEY Clerk. The resolution, he said, had been offered without any previous consultation with Mr. PINCKNEY.

Another motion to take a recess having been made and lost, Mr. ROBINSON's resolution was put to the vote. It was lost, 7 members voting in the affirmative and 9 in the negative.

Mr. GALVIN then called for a separate vote on the nomination of Mr. DEMPSEY as Clerk, but Mr. GEORGE J. KRAUS offered as a substitute a resolution to elect OTIS T. HALL as President, and JOSEPH P. DEMPSEY as Clerk.

On motion, Mr. HALL's name was stricken out of the resolution and Mr. DEMPSEY was then elected Clerk of the Board by a vote of 12 to 8.

Mr. GALVIN said that as there appeared to be no chance of electing a President of the Board, he would move that a recess be taken until 1 P. M.

In the meantime Mr. DEMPSEY was conducted into the Chamber and took his seat at the Clerk's desk.

Mr. GALVIN then nominated NICHOLAS R. CONNER, of the Fourteenth District, as President of the Board. The nomination was lost, 9 voting in the affirmative and 12 in the negative.

Mr. JOSEPH P. STACK nominated FRANCIS J. GEISS for President, but simultaneously a motion to adjourn to Thursday next was made and carried.

There appear to be a number of aspirants to the office of President. Eleven votes are required for any candidate, and the Board at present stands about equally divided.

The Old Board of Assistant Aldermen.

Notwithstanding the prohibition of the Supreme Court, the members of the old Board of Assistant Aldermen attempted to hold a private meeting in the chamber of the Board of Supervisors, yesterday. A quorum, however, was not present.

Around the City Hall—A Quiet Day.

There was a complete lull in and around the City Hall yesterday, after the storm of the day before. This was in a great measure, no doubt, owing to the fact that a great many politicians went to Albany on Monday night, and that, consequently, the usual crowd had dwindled down into a few knots of the most ill-visaged and whisky-perfumed hangers-on of the rank and file of Tammany. Such as were present seemed, in their peculiar classical manner, the events of New-York's Day, and those who were MAYOR HALL's friends were loud in their commendation of his decisive action in recognizing the new Boards. Mr. SHAFFER, temporary Clerk of the new Board of Aldermen, came down town at an early hour, entered the office of the Clerk of the Board of Aldermen by the private doors, and took possession. Mr. HARDY, however, declined to give up the keys of the safe and book-cases, on the ground that they were the property of the old Board. No formal demand was made for possession of the office of the Clerk of the Board of Assistant Aldermen. The members of the old Board of Aldermen met in caucus in the Supervisor's room, in the new Court-house, but the result of their deliberations could not at that time be ascertained. It is said that Mr. FRANCIS J. TUOMEY, for fifteen years Deputy Clerk of the Board of Aldermen, and in no way identified with politics, will probably be deputed to take charge of all the books and papers in the Clerk's office of the Board of Aldermen, pending the dispute between the two Boards.

The Mayor arrived at his office at an early hour yesterday, and during the morning remained closely shut up in his private sanctum. The old Board of Assistant Aldermen had the effrontery to send to him the resolution adopted by them to transfer the public printing from the New-York Printing Company to FRANK MCMULLEN, and to request his signature thereto. The request was not, of course, acceded to. During the day, ARCHIBALD FULLERTON was sworn in as Second Deputy Clerk of the Board of Supervisors, and Ex-Judge HENRY ALKEN as Public Administrator. The flags on the City Hall were hoisted by direction of the Mayor. Can it be possible that this display of bunting was in honor of the victory obtained over his late friends and associates?

The New Civil Judges.

The new Civil Judges elected for the State Courts took their seats for the first time yesterday, having taken their official oaths at different times since receiving their certificates of election. Judge GEORGE C. BARRETT presided in Supreme Court, Chambers. Judges WILLIAM C. CURTIS and JOHN SEDGWICK occupied seats on the Bench of the Superior Court, General Term, in company with Judge MCCUNN, who presided. Chief-Justice CHARLES P. DALY, re-elected as a Judge of the Court of Common Pleas, and his associates re-elected to the Chief-Justiceship, presided in the General Term of that Court. Judge SPALDING, of the Marine Court, sat in General Term.

At the opening of the General Term of the Common Pleas, Judge ROBINSON having announced the fact that his associates had elected Judge DALY to his old position of Chief-Justice, the members of the Bar present very warmly congratulated the latter on a renewal of his tenure of office.

The Spottswood Asassination Case—Mrs. Commodore Chauncey Arrested.

Mrs. Commodore CHAUNCEY, the lady who shot DANIEL SNOWHILL, as a wedding in Spottswood, N. J., is under arrest at her house, near the scene of the tragedy. She cannot be removed to the jail at New-Brunswick, so serious were the injuries which she received at the time of her attempt upon SNOWHILL's life. Physical prostration after the excitement of the attack, and the flight, has also done much to reduce her her strength, so that it is entirely likely that she will be well enough to be removed to the jail for some days or weeks to come.

SNOWHILL lies at the house in which he was visiting in a very critical condition, and it is not thought probable that he can recover. The bullet, which lodged near his heart, has not been extracted.

Mrs. CHAUNCEY's injuries result from a blow which SNOWHILL struck when she first fired at him. Dressed in male attire, SNOWHILL thought her a man, and put himself on the offensive as soon as he discovered that his assailant was armed.

The Case of Connolly.

ALBANY, Jan. 2.—By a stipulation, signed by the respective parties, the hearing on the appeals from orders modifying and refusing to vacate the order of arrest in the case of Ex-Controller CONNOLLY has been set down for Friday.

TERRIFIC EXPLOSION.

Oil-Works at Bliss'ville, Long Island, Blown to Atoms—A Magnificent Volcano—Magnificent Spectacle.

At 9 o'clock last night the inhabitants of Greenpoint and Hunter's Point were startled by a flash that for a moment filled the air with vivid light, and a low rumbling sound, like that of an earthquake, that followed immediately afterward, shaking windows and objects indoors in a manner very mysterious to those who did not know the cause. Immediately a huge volume of black smoke was seen rising over the oil-works at Blissville, and a moment after great billows of flame were bearing high into the air, while the dense black cloud stretched itself far away to the west.

The noise of the explosion caused great numbers to repair to the scene, full of apprehensions of a great sacrifice of human life.

The scene of the disaster was JOHN E. CONZEN'S old oil-works, now run by a Mr. BURK, under the supervision of PATRICK MCCUNN. An immense still, covered in by a large brick structure, had exploded, blowing the building to atoms, and scattering the flaming fluid over the brick stable and office adjoining. All these buildings were in a very short time involved in a general conflagration. The spectacle was a magnificent one, its appalling character being very much mitigated by the fact that no person was seriously injured by it. Only one person was working near the building when the explosion took place, and he fortunately escaped with only a slight bruise or so, being thrown down by the concussion. Owing to the remoteness of the place from fire limits, the engines were not on the ground until everything that was within reach of the flames was beyond redemption, nor could the Department avail much after its arrival except to prevent the fire from spreading to the surrounding works.

Thousands upon thousands of gallons of oil were destroyed, and the flames, which are that lit up the surrounding country for a great distance. The amount of damage could not be ascertained at once, but it was thought that it would not fall short of $80,000.

Another reporter says: CARR & BURKE's Oil-works at Bliss'ville, Long Island, were totally consumed last night. The fire was caused by the explosion of two oil stills, which created great alarm in the Eastern District of Brooklyn, and attracted vast numbers to the scene of the conflagration. The engineer was in the building at the time of the explosion, but providentially escaped with a slight bruise on his ankle. The Suburban Fire Department was utterly powerless to contend with the flames, and the entire property proved a total wreck. The loss is estimated at over $100,000, on which there is no insurance.

Loss of the Ship Europa—All Hands Safe—Arrival of the Ship Liverpool.

Capt. WOOD, of the ship Europa, arrived in this City, yesterday, in the ship Liverpool, and reports the total loss of the former vessel. He states that he left Glasgow on Oct. 12, and had ordinary wind and weather to the 23d of November, when he experienced a very heavy gale at latitude 40° 20', longitude 39° 05', which washed away bulwarks, and caused the ship to labor and strain very much; in fact, he said, he had the worst weather he ever experienced, in latitude 40° 20', longitude 61° 01'. The main and mizen masts fell over the side, close by the deck, with all the rigging, sails and gear attached, injuring the beam, breaking the pumps, fife-rail, carrying away hand-rails and brace, the people, as well as fore-yard being in a very perilous position, the yard tipping and swinging, throwing the men down to the deck and into the rigging. On the 21st December all hands were lashed to the pumps, the fore-topmast, with yards, went over the side, leaving nothing but the foremast and yard. On Dec. 29 the ship was in an awful condition, bulwarks gone, pump and steering gear broke, no masts, and the crew nearly worn out, having been at the pumps four days and nights. At noon sighted a vessel, which bore down to them. He gave two boats, with difficulty, and had twenty-six in number, left the ship, there being seven feet of water in the hold. At 6½ P. M. got on board the ship Liverpool, Capt. LAMBERT, from London for New-York, who kindly received them and brought them to this port.

The New-York Historical Society—Election of Officers—Retirement of Rev. Dr. De Witt from the Presidency.

The annual meeting of the New-York Historical Society was held last evening in Eleventh-street and Second-avenue—Rev. THOMAS DE WITT, D. D., in the chair. The annual reports of the Executive Committee, Treasurer and Secretary, which were of a most satisfactory character, were read and adopted, and the following officers elected for the ensuing year: President, AUGUSTUS SCHELL; Vice-Presidents, Erastus C. Benedict, LL. D., and James W. Beekman; Foreign Corresponding Secretary, Wm. Cullen Bryant, LL. D.; Domestic Corresponding Secretary, Wm. J. Hoppin; Recording Secretary, Andrew Warner; Treasurer, Benjamin H. Field, and Librarian, George H. Moore, LL. D.

The former President, Rev. THOMAS DE WITT, D. D., signified his wish to be relieved from active official duty, and declined re-election. On motion of Dr. MOORE, resolutions were passed eulogistic of Rev Dr. Dr Witt's past services and regretting his retirement from office. Dr DE WITT expressed his thanks, and the meeting then adjourned.

Republican Central Committee.

The delegates elect to the Republican Central Committee met last evening at Apollo Hall for the purpose of organizing for the year 1872. The meeting was called to order by Mr. JOHN J. TOWNSEND and Mr. HUGH GARDENER was elected temporary Chairman.

The names of delegates were then called over, when it was ascertained that the First, Third and Fourth Districts were contested. On motion, the matter was referred to a committee consisting of Messrs. FARR, VARCE, THOMAS, MURFEY, RUSSELL and LAIMBEER.

Judge WEBB proposed the following resolution:

Resolved, That we congratulate ourselves and the Republicans throughout the Union upon the fact that the Empire State has thrown off its recent political thralldom and again wheeled into line as a staunch, true, and reliably Republican State. We have invited Republican State Supremacy—and in the great contest of 1872 we intend to be and will be foremost in sustaining and illustrating Republican principles and rallying for our distinguished chieftain, ULYSSES S. GRANT.—[Cheers.]—a record that will be cheering to every patriot in the land, and appealing to every enemy of Republican humanity. The resolution was unanimously adopted, and the meeting adjourned to meet again in two weeks.

The Paterson Poisoning Case.

Coroner QUIN, of Paterson, yesterday continued the inquest on the body of RANSON F. BURROUGHS, which was found a week ago in the Franklin-street House. GILBERT and PHOEBE ANN EILEY, who lived in the house adjoining that occupied by BURROUGHS, first testified as to some facts relating to the disposition made of the furniture removed by LIBBY GARRABRANT, Mrs. SARAH GARRABRANT, mother of the prisoner was placed upon the stand, but her evidence was not important. The Coroner sent for the prisoner, LIBBY GARRABRANT, who gave very distinctly the acknowledged having purchased arsenic, and said that deceased had poisoned himself, and that he had been dead for some days when his body was discovered. She also acknowledged having written the letter found in the pocket of the deceased.

The stomach of BURROUGHS has been given to Prof. DORSEE for analysis, and the jury were unwilling to find a verdict until the results of the analysis is known. The inquest was adjourned until Thursday evening.

Probable Homicide in Newark, N. J.

THOMAS HERRON, a man employed by Dr. HENRY FENNER, near South Orange, stopped at the saloon of PATRICK HAND, in Second-street, on Sunday evening, where he remained during the evening drinking with the proprietor and HUGH CONLAN. They had a trifling dispute, which led to blows, HERRON being pitted against the two. They beat HERRON unmercifully, and afterward set a ferocious dog upon him. His clothes were torn off by the animal, and his face, arms and legs were badly lacerated. HERRON was rescued and carried home. Yesterday he was insensible from what is supposed to be a fracture of the skull. His recovery is pronounced improbable.

The Riverside Park.

The Supreme Court, General Term, yesterday made the formal order appointing new Commissioners in the matter of the Riverside Park, in conformity with its decision made some time since and reported in the TIMES. The new Commissioners are Ex-Judge SUTHERLAND, WILLIAM C. FRAPRAGAN, former partner of the late JAMES T. HALLET, and JONAS GILMAN.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

Discussion Concerning the Anti-Administration Senators—Election of New Statues at the Capitol—Project to Convert the Valley of the Yellowstone into a Public Park.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—The first Cabinet meeting since before Christmas was held today, all the members being present. It was of brief duration, however, no important business being transacted. The President will go over to Philadelphia for a day or two.

REMORSE CONCERNING THE DISAFFECTED SENATORS.

It is commented on here as of considerable significance that both Senators TRUMBULL and FENTON called on the President yesterday, and subsequently called on the members of the Cabinet. From this some people argue that there can be no truth in the rumor that these gentlemen have lately received distinct propositions from the Democrats to know whether, in case a Conservative Republican was nominated for the Presidency by the Democrats, they would hold the nomination of GRANT; or, if such a rumor be true, then it is argued that the other rumor must also be true, to wit: that they have declined to make any arrangement or to be bound by any implication which would indicate that they were ready to separate from the Republican Party.

BUTLER ON THE FISHERIES.

Gen. BUTLER has arrived from his fishing excursion to New-England, where his experience with the fishermen has further impressed him with the necessity of continuing his war on the portion of the treaty relating to their interests, and he is determined to push it with renewed vigor.

INTEREST IN NEW-YORK POLITICS.

The result in the organization of the Legislature at Albany is received here by such members of the New-York delegation in Congress, with one exception, as are in the city, with much satisfaction. It is also equally satisfactory in other quarters, and the hope is very generally expressed that this may only prove the continuation of the Reform victory which began in November. No Legislature's work will be watched with greater interest here this Winter than that of New-York.

STATUE OF ROGER SHERMAN.

The statue of ROGER SHERMAN, the first Governor of Connecticut and a signer of the Declaration of Independence, has been set up by the statue of TRUMBULL, which was noticed a day or two ago, and the two standing directly opposite the statues of GREENE and ROGER WILLIAMS, form a very pleasing addition to the statuary of the Capitol. The Sherman will, perhaps, be considered a more pleasing marble than the Trumbull, though both will be justly admired. It is worthy of remark that the statue of Gov. SHERMAN bears a striking resemblance to Senator TRUMBULL, of Illinois. He is represented in the attitude of delivering a speech. The left hand holds up the cloak which has partially fallen from the right shoulder, and the right arm is raised to the height for the breast, and the hand employed with a gesture. The contour of the figure and the expression of the face unite in impressing one that the statue is the contribution of Illinois instead of Connecticut.

IMPROVEMENT AT THE SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTE.

The grand hall of the Smithsonian Institute, which was destroyed by fire a few years ago, has been rebuilt, and is to be devoted to a Museum of Fossils. No appropriations have been made for the necessary glass-cases, but will undoubtedly be made during the present session. Meantime the collection is begun by the setting up of a plaster cast of the skeleton of the mezatherium which is in the British Museum. The casts of the different bones have been received, and workmen are now putting them together in the centre of the hall. There have also been received a plaster cast of an immense fossil armadillo, and a turtle several feet in diameter. Prof. HENRY MORTON, President of the Stevens Institution of Technology, at Hoboken, N. J., arrived here today, and lectures in the scientific course of the Young Men's Christian Association to-morrow night. Prof. HAYDEN is working diligently on the report of his recent explorations in the Yellowstone Valley, and will soon have it ready, which is preliminary to the final complete and detailed report which he hopes to finish as soon as the labors of active explorations will permit. Mr. JACKSON, the photographer of the expedition, has set up quite a large establishment here, where he is making the prints for illustrations from the negatives, as well as stereoscopic and other views. Mr. ELLIOTT, the artist, has a room at the Smithsonian Institute, where he is busy elaborating his sketches of the wonderful scenery, finishing many of them in water colors, and also preparing the charts and maps which will illustrate the report, and which are made from sketches and reports of surveys. In a room adjoining the National Museum at the Smithsonian Institute, have just been opened the cases of mineralogical specimens, amounting to several tons in weight, gathered during the exploration. These specimens will be arranged as soon as possible in the cabinet of the Institute. The collection is of great interest to geologists. There are cabinets illustrating completely the silicious deposits of the hot and Geyser Springs, the calcareous deposits of the Gardner's River hot soda springs, a large number of fossils, among which are the huge tusk of an elephant and an elephant's tooth, and the whole formation of the Yellowstone Valley is illustrated, besides a great collection of mineral ores, coals, and the like, gathered by the expedition to and from the valley. The proposition to set apart this whole wonderful valley for a grand national park will come up in Congress soon after the recess again, and legislation following the precedent in the case of the Yosemite is probable. Seeing that the proposed park, which is a feast of country about the size of the State of Vermont, is higher above the sea than the top of Mount Washington, is almost wholly of volcanic formation, and contains no iron or coal beds, or minerals of value, with a climate so cold that there are heavy frosts every month in the year, it is difficult to discover what more profitable use it can be put to than set apart as a natural curiosity for the entertainment of the whole world. The brief accounts of the explorations have created a great impression here, and the appropriations asked for to complete the surveys will easily be made by Congress, especially as they are modest in amount.

PERSONAL.

GEORGE WILLIAM CURTIS is expected to be here to-morrow to meet with the Advisory Civil Service Board. While in the city this time he will be the guest of Hon. SAM. HOOPER, of Massachusetts.

THE BANKS.

Third-Avenue Savings Bank—The Run Yesterday.

The Third-avenue Savings Bank was yesterday the scene of considerable excitement. A report had been circulated that the affairs of this institution were in a highly unsatisfactory state, in consequence of which, from 10 A. M. until 3 P. M., the hour of closing, the bank was crowded with men and women eager to withdraw their deposits. At about 2 P. M. nearly 600 people had assembled in and about the building, and when the doors were closed over 100 persons still remained inside. It is expected that this run will continue today and perhaps longer. A similar run was made upon this bank on the 9th of October last, which continued for three days, the result being that the depositors all received their money, and the business of the bank continued without interruption. Mr. JOHN H. LYON, the President of the bank, says that the report which caused this excitement is an entirely malicious and unfounded one, propagated by former directors of the savings bank and political enemies of the present managers. The allegations made in reference to its financial condition, and its speculations in real estate and stocks, the President also pronounces to be untrue in every particular, and refers to the statement made by him last October as the only correct account. The statement then made showed a surplus of between $70,000 and $80,000, which was about the amount of the surplus on the 31st of December. The amount withdrawn by depositors in last October was nearly $300,000, since which $360,000 fresh deposits have been made.

The managers of the bank showed themselves to be quite prepared for the run of yesterday, having cash to the amount of $1,000,000 on hand. It has been customary since the opening of the bank to pay out from $150,000 to $200,000 on the 1st of January, that being the day on which the dividends are payable. Two-thirds of the Security Interest have also been converted during the day, so that the management have prepared themselves for even greater withdrawals of deposits than occurred on the three days' "run" of October last. The amount of deposits is about $6,000,000, and the available securities about $5,000,000 in excess of which is in New-York State and City bonds.

The Stuyvesant Bank.

The depositors in the Stuyvesant Bank met at the Sinclair House last evening, Ex-Judge KELLY presiding. The Committee appointed to inquire into the financial condition of the bank reported that the Receiver had collected $62,388 78 since his appointment, and had disbursed $60,494 02, leaving a balance of $2,002 54.

Laffilla's Cartoons.

A work of rare merit, in an artistic point of view, comprising twenty-five cartoons illustrative of Gospel texts, by EUGENIO LAFILLA, an Italian artist, is on exhibition at BRENTANO'S store, No. 39 Union-square. The cartoons, faced by the text in fancy type, surrounded by an illuminated border, and superbly colored by hand, are beautifully and appropriately bound in embossed leather. The designs have never been published, but a few copies were struck off, and distributed to private friends of the artist. They illustrate, as we have said, incidents taken from the Gospels, such as Christ Blessing Little Children, the Raising of Lazarus, and the Last Supper. An inspection of these cartoons is sufficient proof that LAFILLA was an artist in the true sense of the word; for, though not grand in design, the grouping is good, and the countenances of the various figures full of devotional feeling. Nor are the illuminated texts the least charming portion of the work. In each one the type is different, and the borders are in themselves works of art of no mean order. The coloring, too, is very brilliant, and has evidently been executed with much care. But one copy of this work, the property of the artist's widow, is for sale. The late HENRY TUCKERMAN, in his Lives of the Artists, refers to this work of LAFILLA's in highly complimentary terms.

Cancellation of Tennessee State Bonds.

From the Nashville Union, Dec. 29.

The Cancelling Committee yesterday canceled 1,324 State bonds, amounting to $1,324,000, thereby finishing the great labor allotted to them in this respect. The Committee commenced their work on the 19th of this month, since which time they have done more work than is generally supposed, having canceled 10,839 bonds of the State of Tennessee, in value amounting to $10,839,000. Each bond has from forty-six to sixty-four coupons attached, the number being dependent upon the series of the bonds and the first-due coupons. In order to cancel each bond and the coupons attached it was necessary to make, on an average, fifty-five perforations, which were made by punches and mallets, and are about one-half inch in diameter. It will thus be seen that the labor of punching was very heavy, requiring upon the whole 596,145 perforations. The work of arranging the bonds so as to allow the punch to each bond of every series made it necessary for coupons to fall upon each other. In addition to this the whole had to be listed in a record book of 600 pages, kept for that purpose, in which each bond was fully described, showing its number, series, color, number of coupons, date of first coupons due, by whom signed, by what parties returned, and to whom and for what purpose issued. All of the listing was done by JNO. S. WILKES, the arranging and assorting by the Canceling Committee, composed of the Governor, Controller, Treasurer and Secretary of the State, and then the bonds were carefully punched, as above stated, in their presence and by their direction, and under the superintendence of Mr. DEMPSEY WEAVER. After being canceled the bonds were recalled from the books, checked off, put in properly sealed packages, and then safely deposited.

The Republicans of Missouri and the Liberal Movement of 1870.

From the St. Louis Democrat, Dec. 27.

Every intelligent man in Missouri, and every well-informed citizen of the country, knows that the division of Republicans in this State in 1870 was upon a local question exclusively, and is held by the Republican masses of the State to have passed away with the disposition of that question. In no election since held in this State have Republicans been divided. The stronghold of the liberal wing was St. Louis County; and here, after a most desperate but futile struggle of a scheming clique, the members of that clique found themselves without followers, without even an organization, and felt compelled to come into the one only Republican camp. Since the Fall of 1870, "Liberals" as such have not held a convention, nor nominated a candidate, but they have fused in the primaries with other Republicans, participated with Republicans in conventions, and voted for the same ticket at the polls. The Republican Press in this State is a unit, and knows of no division in the party—with the notably sole exceptions of the Westliche Post, of which SCHURZ is editor, and the State Times, till now published as the organ of our Democratic Brothers in Congressional District. Of the State Committee of the late Liberal wing, a clear majority have joined the State Committee of the other wing in the call for one State Convention of all the Republicans of this State.

A Commercial Traveller Released from Arrest in Virginia.

From the Richmond Dispatch, Dec. 30.

A telegram received last night from Alexandria, announces that Judge UNDERWOOD has released WM. H. BARRETT, who was brought before him on a writ of habeas corpus under the act of Congress of 1867. BARRETT is a commercial traveller or drummer from the North, and was arrested in this city a few days ago for selling goods by sample without license. Justice WHITE fined him the minimum amount imposed by the State law, but he declined to pay the fine and went to jail with a view of testing the legality of the law by which he was punished. Judge UNDERWOOD held that the case was covered by a recent decision of the Supreme Court of the United States, in the case of WARD vs. the State of Maryland, which declared such laws unconstitutional.

Illness of Archbishop Spalding.

From the Baltimore Sun, Jan. 2.

The Most Rev. Archbishop SPALDING, who who has been confined to his room for some time past from a serious bronchial affection, grew worse on Sunday, and yesterday the prayers of the congregation at the cathedral were asked for his recovery. Last evening the condition of the venerable prelate was unchanged, but no serious fears are entertained but that he will finally recover.

the net revenues were $800,714 81, now they are $901,532 05, showing an increase of $101,818 07.

But turning from a comparison of the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, 1871, with the previous fiscal year, to one of the season of navigation of 1871 with that of 1870, the result is still more favorable to 1871. This shows an increase of tolls in the present season of navigation (and practically some fifteen days shorter) over that of 1870 of $487,237 72. A comparison of expenditures for the same years cannot accurately be made at this time, but it is entirely within the limits of safety to say that they were as much smaller in the calendar year of 1871 as compared with that of 1870, as the foregoing table shows them to have been in the corresponding fiscal year.

The receipts of 1871 were larger than the annual average of the thirty-four years since 1837; and the annual average for the seven years next preceding the war was only $2,458,540, or less by the large sum of $620,169 78 than the sum collected in the second season of the new era of low tolls and an improved condition of the canal. Further progressive benefits may reasonably be expected.

REDUCTION OF THE STATE DEBT.

On the 30th of September, 1871, the funded debt of the State was $23,121,606 40, or over $500,000 less than in the previous year. It is classified as follows:

General fund	$4,048,066 40
Contingent	65,000 00
Canal	11,961,540 00
Bounty	7,047,000 00
Total	$23,121,606 40

But the aggregate State debt, after deducting unapplied Sinking Funds, was

Sept. 30, 1870	$27,409,144 38
Sept. 30, 1871	25,858,707 38
Thus the reduction in the State debt is	$1,595,441 74

RESULTS OF A LIBERAL CANAL POLICY.

The Controller congratulates the people on the result of a liberal canal policy and on its adoption by both political parties, and demonstrates the necessity of its permanence. The means by which the people gain their subsistence should not be impaired, and the least practicable portion of their surplus earnings should be taken from them. During the last fiscal year there has been a decrease of 378,295 68 in the expenditures on the Canals, and although the last season of navigation was fifteen days shorter than in 1870, the tolls collected in it were $487,722 78 more than in 1870. The anticipations expressed in last years report that "another year will turn the tide strongly in our favor," have been realized; and the canals did the prompt attendance of officials contributed to the success of the season. Some of the quickest trips ever known were made in 1871. The important reform of low tolls tends to promote honest government. "Corruption naturally arises from large revenues and lavish expenditures, but prudence in the employment of wise economy and a due regard to the interests of the people, in commercial as well as in political affairs."

STEAM ON THE CANALS.

The effect of new rival routes and mechanical appliances has yet to be tested, and "constant and vigorous attention, both on the part of the State itself and of the intelligent men who are especially interested in the result, is imperatively demanded to secure cheaper and more speedy methods of carrying property over the canals."

CANAL EXPENDITURES, &C.

The decrease in the canal expenditures indicates that the expenses of the previous year are no longer necessary, and further reductions may be expected. Parts of the canal debt are redeemable July 1, 1872, and Jan. 1, 1873. It is believed the credit of the sinking fund will be found a security abundantly ample for borrowing the deficiency, and that a resort to taxation will not be necessary.

BOUNTY DEBT AND SINKING FUND.

A balance of $4,582,371 remains in the Treasury, and a tax of 3 mills only will be needed for 1872, instead of 3½ in 1871.

LOCAL INDEBTEDNESS.

The Controller recommends legislation requiring annual statements of city, town, city and county indebtedness, and providing, by proper penalties, for prompt performance of the duties required by it.

REVENUES.

The statement of revenue shows a nominal but not wholly real deficiency of $6,876,806 on Sept. 30, 1871, but taxes unpaid on that day and advances made for appropriations for 1872 are $6,550,881, leaving an actual deficiency of $2,327,924, being $313,118 more than the deficiency estimated last year. The increase arises from appropriations not then included in the estimates of the department.

PROPOSED REFORMS.

The Controller recommends that the State tax for the City and County of New-York be made payable within each fiscal year. It is nearly half of the whole State tax, and yet it is not strictly payable until two months afterward. The percentage payable to the County Treasurer of New-York now exceeds 100, and the Controller deems this disproportionate to the service rendered, and that it should be reduced. Special rates are paid in the Counties of New-York, Kings, Albany, Oswego, Onondaga, Erie and Westchester. He recommends an uniform rate of compensation throughout the State, in no case exceeding a given maximum, to be fixed by the Legislature. The expenditures for educational purposes were $3,607,563, of which $2,456,751 were the proceeds of a direct tax of one and one-fourth mills for common schools. Expenditures for asylums, for the deaf, blind, insane and idiotic were $916,287. This is exclusive of appropriations for building. The amount paid for hospitals, orphan asylums and other charitable institutions was $1,175,370.

The net revenue from the Onondaga Salt Springs was $38,526. The estimate of expenses for next year is $40,000, being $6,000 more than in the current year. Receipts from auction duties were $100,136.

The earnings for the State Prisons were $9,004 more than last year, but the expenditures over earning were $479,209. The Controller thinks the prisons should be self-supporting, and recommends the subject to the Legislature as "worthy of the most earnest, thorough, and intelligent investigation with a view to revision."

The sum paid to the State Reformatory at

Elmira in 1871 was	$122,313
To the new Capitol	62,942
The school fund increased in 1871	42,042
Estimated deficiency on Sept. 30, 1872	4,681,138

showing the excess on appropriations over provision to meet them. "Appropriations mean actual money, and this can only be realized by the regular process of taxation."

At the State tax sale last September for taxes from 1861 to 1865 inclusive, 14,559 parcels were sold; purchases by individuals amounted to $242,804, and by the State $65,603.

In 1871 the tax for all purposes, known to the Controller's office was $46,874,482. In 1869 it was $19,064,024.

The gross valuation in 1871 was $2,023,897,268; increase over 1870, $98,826,718.

The State tax for the current fiscal year is 6 76-100 mills, made up as follows:

	Mills.
For Schools	1¼
General purposes	1¾
Bounty debt	2
New Capitol	¾
Canal funding debt	¾
New work and extra repairs	¾
Champlain Canal enlargement	¼
Total	6 76-100

The Controller is of opinion that, exclusive of extraordinary work on the canals and work on the new Capitol, the deficiency in the general fund and the calls upon the Treasury can be met next year by a tax of 4½ mills.

The Delaware Whipping-Post—Congressman Biggs Corrected.

From the Wilmington (Del.) Commercial, Dec. 30.

In a recent speech our Congressman, Mr. BIGGS, who can raise as many peaches per acre as the next man, and doesn't get frightened if the market is a little dull, made a very serious error. He assured the House that: "So far as the State of Delaware is concerned, and especially as regards the whipping-post, that is an institution which we cursed yes today are proud of. It has only been established for felons, and occasionally, and thieves and robbers; and to the glory of the State be it said, that no man has been caught back at it a second time after he has been once properly whipped."

Now, the fact is, that it is a common thing for a man to be whipped more than once. At the recent session of Court, one LUTTON was whipped for larceny, who had been lashed at the same post, by the same cat-o'-nine-tails, not less than twice or three previously. Luttonhad he had ceased to care for the punishment, and he had evidently lost all sense of humiliation or shame. We undertake to say that if any careful examination is made at the Court records, and the Sheriffs records, (if they

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS

The attendance at the Exchange yesterday, Jan. 2, for the opening day of the season, was quite large, although the business transacted was of minor interest. The following is a review of the proceedings: JOSEPH MCGUIRE, under an order of the Supreme Court in foreclosure, JULIUS J. LYONS, Esq., referee, sold a house and lot, the latter 16 by 45—located on the north side of Third-street, between Avenues C and D—for $7,000, the purchaser being J. B. SMITH. JAMES M. MILLER, at public auction, effected another sale of the West-side Elevated Railway, disposing of the estate, right, title, and interest acquired by JAMES A. COWING as trustee, at the sale of the same property made at the Exchange Oct. 3, 1871, under an order in foreclosure made by the Superior Court. The road yesterday was purchased by the West-side Elevated Railway Company for $100,000. In addition to the above, ROB H. SMITH & CO., sold by order of C. DE P. FIELD, Esq., President, the entire machinery, tools and appliances for the manufacture of rope, contained in the works of the Nassau Cordage Company, situated on the Fresh Pond road, near Myrtle-avenue, in the town of Newtown, Long Island, together with the unexpired lease of the premises. Payline about eight years to run; the whole comprising a complete rope-making establishment ready to be set in operation at once. The property was bought by W. MARSHALL for $30,250. No further business was transacted. For today at the Exchange or elsewhere no public auctions are announced.

In the matter of property offered at private sale, E. H. LUDLOW & CO., No. 3 Pine-street, Branch office No. 26 East Seventeenth-street, Union-square, and M. A. J. LYNCH & HUGH McCABE, No. 169 Broadway, corner Pine-street, advertise for sale an extensive list, the former embracing a large number of desirable City residences, and the latter valuable business property. WINSLOW, LANIER & CO., BANKERS, NO. 27 PINE-ST., NEW-YORK, OFFER FOR SALE any part of $1,000,000 GRAND RAPIDS AND INDIANA RAILROAD COMPANY'S FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS, bearing seven per cent. interest, payable in GOLD, free of Government tax, being the balance remaining unsold of the $5,000,000 First Mortgage Bonds, which are also secured by LAND GRANT of 1,100,000 acres of choice fine timber land, the proceeds of the sales of which are applied to the redemption of the bonds. Hon. W. A. Howard, Land Commissioner, reports, Dec. 8, that the land sales to that date amount to about 60,000 acres, at an average of $15 per acre. He estimates the proceeds of the entire land grant at not less $10,000,000, clear of expenses. Two hundred and twenty (220) miles of the railroad are now completed, and earning sufficient money to pay the interest on the whole issue of bonds. Price ninety and accrued interest. We recommend these bonds to investors as a perfectly safe and desirable security.

$140,000,000

U. S. 5-20 BONDS

Have been called in, and are now being paid.

Our Government is rapidly retiring the National debt by purchase and redemption, thereby assuring us that all the 5-20s will soon be taken up by purchase or in exchange for Bonds at Four and Five per Cent. interest.

Investors are looking for safe and reliable securities returning a good income to take their place.

Many holders are converting them through us into the

PEORIA & ROCK ISLAND First Mortgage 7 Per Cent. Gold Bonds,

thereby adding 90 to 95 PER CENT. TO THEIR CAPITAL, and about 45 PER CENT. to their YEARLY INCOME.

We commend these bonds strongly, for the following reasons:

The Road, ninety-one miles in length, is already COMPLETED, and earning much more than the interest on the whole issue of bonds.

The mortgage, $1,500,000, is less than $16,500 per mile.

The road passes through a rich, populous, agricultural, manufacturing, and coal district.

It connects Peoria and Rock Island, two of the largest and most flourishing cities in Illinois, and forms part of a trunk-line from Indianapolis to St. Paul—576 miles. It also connects two navigable rivers—the Illinois and Mississippi. The bonds are authorized for the extra equipments and necessary buildings required to do the business now offered.

They are coupon bonds, $1,000 each, and can be registered if desired.

Interest, seven per cent., gold, free of tax, payable February and August.

Price, 90 and interest in currency.

INTERNATIONAL RAILROAD CO (OF TEXAS) FIRST MORTGAGE SINKING FUND 7 PER CT. GOLD BONDS. FORTY YEARS TO RUN.

PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST PAYABLE IN NEW-YORK, FREE OF TAX.

TRUSTEES: JOHN A. STEWART, WILLIAM H. OSBORN.

Issue Limited to $16,000 Per Mile on Finished Road.

The Road is being built through the centre of the State, from the Red River to the Rio Grande, bringing the interior of the State, with its population and extensive productions, into direct communication with the railroad system of the United States, via the Cairo and Fulton Railroad.

Sixty miles of the Road, between Bourne, on the line of the Houston and Texas Central Railroad, and Fulton, on the Red River, have been completed, and are now in operation, and the balance of the work is progressing rapidly.

THE STOCKHOLDERS HAVE PAID IN $3,000,000 IN CASH, WHICH HAS ALL BEEN JUDICIOUSLY EXPENDED IN CONSTRUCTION PRIOR TO OFFERING THE BONDS FOR SALE. The names of the stockholders, which include some of our best citizens, can be seen at the office of the Company.

SPOFFORD BROTHERS & CO., AND AT THE OFFICE OF THE COMPANY, No. 29 Broadway, New-York.

A FIRST-CLASS NEW-YORK SECURITY AT A LOW PRICE.

The undersigned offer for sale the FIRST MORTGAGE SEVEN PER CENT. GOLD BONDS of the Syracuse and Chenango Valley Railroad, at 95 and accrued interest.

This road runs from the City of Syracuse to Smith's Valley, where it unites with the New-York Midland Railroad, thus connecting that city by a direct line of road with the Metropolis.

Its length is forty-two miles, its COST ABOUT $40,000 PER MILE, and it is MORTGAGED FOR LESS THAN $12,000 PER MILE; the balance of the funds required for its construction having been raised by subscription to the capital stock.

The road approaches completion. It traverses a populous and fertile district of the State, which insures it a paying business, and it is under the control of gentlemen of high character and ability. Its bonds possess all the requisites of an inviting investment. They are amply secured by a mortgage for LESS THAN ONE-THIRD THE VALUE OF THE PROPERTY. They pay SEVEN PER CENT. GOLD INTEREST, and are offered five per cent. below par. The undersigned confidently recommend them to all classes of investors.

GEORGE OPDYKE & CO., No. 25 Nassau-st.

EIGHT PER CT. BONDS, OF GREENE COUNTY, State of Missouri.

The attention of investors is called to the above Bonds, which are issued to the Kansas City and Memphis branch of the Hannibal and St. Joseph Railroad Company. The total debt of Greene County, prior to the issue of these bonds, was about $12,000. The assessed valuation of taxable property—which is estimated at half its actual value—is $6,713,078, in addition to which some $2,000,000 of railroad property will become taxable for the first time during the present year.

The entire issue of these bonds is $400,000, in coupon bonds of $1,000 each, bearing date Aug. 1, 1871, and maturing in twenty years. Interest, at the rate of eight per cent. per annum, is payable in New-York on the first days of February and August in each year. We are authorized to offer this loan to the public at 80 and accrued interest, with the reserved right to advance the price at any time. At this price they pay OVER ELEVEN PER CENT. on the investment.

Government and other marketable securities received in exchange at current rates, we paying express charges both ways.

Pamphlets, &c., with full particulars, or any further information, will be furnished upon application, either personally or by letter.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Jan. 2.—The excitement over the outrage committed upon the little white girl by a negro named HOWARD is very great. A mob of four or five hundred people went to the jail and attempted to break in and kill the prisoner. They were foiled by the Sheriff and the Police. There is now an immense crowd about the jail, and they are frantic over the report that the little girl has died of her injuries. The evening papers are out with the evidence against HOWARD. It is conclusive, and leaves no doubt that he is the man who committed the dreadful outrage. The Police are at the jail, and the military are assembling at the arsenal. Attacks are made by roughs and others on unoffending negroes who appear in the streets. It is feared that there will be an outbreak to-night. The Sheriff and his aids stand firm, and are determined to uphold the laws.

Six P. M.—The Police have made another raid on the crowd about the jail and dispersed it. There is more quietness just now, but all is speculation as to whether there will be another mob to-night or not. The repulse of the one this morning, it is hoped, had the effect to prevent another assemblage to-night. The Police and military are on duty. The Grand Jury are in session, and they will indict HOWARD to-morrow forenoon, and he will be brought into Court to plead to the indictment. Efforts have been made this P. M. to have him plead guilty, but he refuses, and says that he is innocent. The evidence against him accumulates. It would seem almost criminal to take HOWARD from the jail at present, as the mob would rescue him from the authorities and kill him.

There are about a hundred of the military guarding the jail this evening. There is a mob there yelling and shouting, and there have been several stones thrown at the military. The Police, who had been relieved, are again ordered to the jail.

Midnight.—About 9 o'clock, while the crowd was yelling at the corner of Court and Exchange streets, the military fired a volley, killing two men and wounding one man and one boy. The names of the killed are JOHN ELTER, a railroad carman, and HENRY MULOW. JOHN HILBERT was shot through the calf of the leg. The name of the boy has not been learned. He was hit in the shoulder. The excitement is great, and people are hurrying to the scene of the conflict. The crowd said it was not necessary to fire, while the military say that they were compelled to fire to protect themselves, as they were being pelted with stones.

An account of the difficulty is thus given by an eye-witness, Policeman BRANCH. The squad of military were lined across the west end of the bridge facing Exchange-street. A man stepped up to Policeman BRANCH and said that some boys a few feet off were picking up stones. The officer drove them away. At the same instant the word "forward" was given by the officer in command of the squad, and he pushed the policeman aside. The shots were fired at this time. The men shot were standing in Exchange-street, and had not participated with the mob. ELTER was a highly respectable and influential German citizen. He lived but a few moments after being taken into a saloon near by. It is reported that a woman was shot, but it is not yet confirmed. The feeling against the military is intense. The Police are being drawn in from the outer districts of the city and dispatched to the vicinity of the jail. It is feared that more blood will be shed before morning. The colored people are fleeing to their houses to hide, as it is not deemed safe for them to be seen in the streets.

The main portion of the crowd on Exchange and Court streets has been dispersed. About 100 or more still remain on the grounds. There does not seem to be any organizing for further attack, but there is talk of holding a meeting of citizens to-night or to-morrow.

The body of JOHN ELTER has just been taken to the home of the deceased. On being deposited in the wagon, loud expressions of indignation were made by the spectators.

HENRY MEELOW was going to his home on Bartlett-street when shot. The ball entered his stomach, and a large pool of blood is on the walk where he fell. He was an inoffensive man and took no part in the disturbances.

JOHN MOLAN was shot through the right lung and was conveyed to St. Mary's Hospital. He is not expected to live. A carman named ELIAS SWANTON, is also reported killed. He was shot in the arm and received a bayonet wound in the back.

LOUIS KAMP was shot through the thigh and left arm.

Five companies of militia are now guarding the jail and the streets leading thereto. Capt. SWART was in command. The firing is reported to have originated in the ranks of Company D. The members of this Company, and also the members of Company G discharged their muskets. The other Companies on guard are E, K, and A.

It is estimated that the crowd numbered a thousand persons. When the firing began, order was given to charge bayonets, and in this movement the guns were discharged.

The provocation for the order was, it is said, the throwing of stones and bricks by some of the crowd. One of the soldiers was struck in the shoulder by a brick, and disabled.

The feeling of indignation against the military is very great, and their action is condemned by law-abiding citizens. The Captains of the companies above-named disclaim giving any orders to fire.

A rumor is current that a negro was shot in a saloon in the Eighth Ward, but it is believed to be unfounded.

An Account of the Negro Riot in Arkansas from the Other Side.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Jan. 2.—A special dispatch from Little Rock, Ark., to the Enquirer, contains a statement from ALFRED SANDERS, a brother to one of the men who was shot by negroes in Cotted, Ark., corroborating the reports of negro outrages in that place. He says: After killing three men, a number of armed negroes went to his brother's house, fired into the doors and windows, and dismounted two, threatening in case of refusal to burn the house. The money was paid, and shortly after another party appeared and demanded the, which was paid. SANDERS then left the village. He also states that the negroes killed all the fatted cattle, horses and cows, owned by large planters in this vicinity. Every person coming or going is challenged by the negro guard who yet remain, and the whites are still afraid to return to their homes.

BRIGHAM YOUNG.

He is Arrested on a Charge of Murder—Bail is Refused, and He is Confined in His Own House.

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 2.—BRIGHAM YOUNG was arrested this morning at his residence in this city by the United States Marshal on a charge of murder. An application for his release on bail will be heard at 2 P. M., today, by Judge MCKEAN.

LATER.—BRIGHAM YOUNG, in custody of a United States Marshal, and accompanied by Gen. A. SMITH, DANIEL A. WELLS, H. B. CLAWSON, and other high Church dignitaries, appeared before Chief-Justice MCKEAN this afternoon under an indictment. The Court-room was crowded to suffocation. Much anxiety exists among the Mormons, but there is not the least show of disorder or disrespect to the Court. Hon. C. H. HEMPSTEAD and THOMAS FITCH are the counsel for the prisoner, and United States Attorney BATES prosecutes for the people.

Mr. HEMPSTEAD moved that the prisoner be admitted to bail on the ground that he was an old man, seventy-one years of age, and in feeble health. He had come 400 miles to meet this and all other charges, and his physician certified that imprisonment would imperil his life. Mr. BATES had no opposition to bail, but suggested that if bail be taken, it be fixed at $500,000.

Judge MCKEAN said that the Government of the United States has no jail in this city for holding prisoners arrested on a process issued from the United States Courts. The Marshal is required to exercise the discretion which the law vests in him. Sometimes such prisoners are kept at Camp Douglass, but the commander of that fort was not obliged to receive them. The prisoner is reported to be the owner of several houses in the city. If he chooses to put under the control of the Marshal some suitable building in which to be detained, it will be for the Marshal to decide whether to adopt it. It is the option of the prisoner to make such an offer. In any event the Marshal will look to it that every comfort of the prisoner be provided for, remembering that he is an old man. I decline to admit to bail. On leaving the Court, BRIGHAM tendered the Marshal his residence in South Temple-street, which was accepted, and BRIGHAM is now a prisoner in his own house. He seemed perfectly cool and unconcerned.

THE GRAND DUKE.

Arrival at Waukegan, Ill., En Route for Milwaukee—Great Enthusiasm.

(Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.)

WAUKEGAN, Ill., Jan. 2.—The Grand Duke ALEXIS passed through Waukegan this afternoon, at 3½ o'clock, on a special Pullman train, en route for the City of Milwaukee. A salute of thirteen guns was fired at the depot, and about 400 persons were assembled there to welcome His Imperial Highness. The greatest enthusiasm prevailed, which was correspondingly reciprocated by the Grand Duke, who seems much pleased with his Western tour.

Visit at Chicago—Arrangements for the Midnight Hunt.

CHICAGO, Jan. 2.—New-Year's Day was not generally recognized as a holiday, although the newspapers, banks, Board of Trade and trading were generally suspended, and calling was not as general as on previous years. The Grand Duke and his party received the constant attention of the Reception Committee, and were driven through a large number of streets, visiting the stock-yards, where the Duke witnessed hog-killing in the largest slaughter-house in the United States. The Duke seemed to manifest deep interest in the performance. From the slaughter-house the Duke and party visited a pigeon-shooting match, and the Grand Duke tried his hand at trap-shooting. He killed twenty-three out of thirty birds sprung from the trap at a distance of twenty-one paces. This morning the party visited the burnt district, stopped at the Board of Trade, where they were received by a large number of members with loud cheers. This afternoon the Imperial party left on a special train for Milwaukee. The Grand Duke, upon consultation with Gen. SHERIDAN and parties, has reconsidered the declination of a grand buffalo hunt, and changed the programme accordingly. He returns to Chicago from Milwaukee on Thursday, and will give a public reception on that evening from 7 to 10 o'clock. From Chicago he goes to St. Louis, and will proceed from there, via Kansas City and Leavenworth, to Omaha, where he will be joined by Gen. SHERIDAN and a few members of his staff and proceed to Fort McPherson. A camp will be pitched in advance, forty or fifty miles distant, in the heart of the buffalo country, and SPOTTED TAIL and WHETLER have signified their intention to make up a party from their bands, and join in the hunt, these Indians having been permitted by the Government to visit these old hunting-grounds to obtain their Winter supplies.

GREAT BRITAIN.

English Opinion as to the Amount of the Alabama Claims—German Attempt to Remount Discord.

LONDON, Jan. 2.—The London Times, referring to the rumors that the United States will make exhorbitant demands before the Geneva Board, for indemnity for losses by the Alabama and other rebel vessels, professes to believe that the American Government has no such intention; that its main desire is to obtain a public acknowledgment that the position it took and remonstrances it made during the war were founded on reason. The Times says it is desirable that no encouragement should be given belligerents to bring extravagant claims against neutrals for constructive injuries. The Cologne Gazette asserts that the United States claim an enormous amount for indemnity, so that when deductions are made they may receive a handsome sum. This the Gazette denounces as an artful and unworthy trick, but it is not sorry that the only two nations which furnished supplies to France during the war with Germany are now similarly set by the ears. The Right. Hon. EDWARD CARDWELL, Secretary of State for War, addressed his constituents in Oxford yesterday. Alluding to the illness of the Prince of WALES, he said it had served to bring out the strong reciprocal sympathy which always existed between a constitutional Sovereign and a free people. He intimated that the attention of Parliament would be directed to social measures for the improvement and welfare of the people. The idea has been started of transferring the property in the control of the Atlantic Cable lines to the joint Governments of Great Britain and the United States. The proposition is received with favor, in anticipation that it might result in a reduction of the present exorbitant rates of tariff on cable messages.

GENERAL EUROPEAN NEWS.

One of the Orleans Princes Elected Member of the Academy—The Pope Refuses All Intercourse with the King of Italy.

THE WHARTON TRIAL.

Continuation of the Examination of Medical Experts.

(Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.)

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 2.—At 10 o'clock the Court again assembled, and the examination of Dr. REESE was resumed. The object on which the defense seem to centre their endeavors was to prove that the death of Gen. KETCHUM might have occurred not only from other poisons than tartar emetic, but also from purely natural causes. In examining the doctor in reference to the action of poisons and their antidotes on the physical system, he said that none of those he should expect to find from the action of tartar emetic were found in the post-mortem examination, and he should suppose both from that and from the symptoms as given by the physician in attendance that death might be wholly attributed to a disease. The next witness examined was Mrs. J. H. COLTMAN, of Washington, who testified that in January last Mrs. WHARTON had written to her to arrange for an interview between herself and Gen. KETCHUM, which afterward took place at witness' mother's house in Washington. After it was over she found small pieces of torn paper lying on the fire-place. The examination was then adjourned over until to-morrow.

THE WEATHER.

Synopsis and Events.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 2—7 P. M.—The barometer has risen since Monday afternoon throughout the Atlantic States, being highest in New-England, with clear weather. North-easterly winds prevail on the Middle Atlantic coast. South-east winds on the lower lakes. An area of low barometer has advanced from Kansas north-eastward to Iowa, and the pressure has begun to fall south and west of New-York. From southerly winds prevail on Lake Michigan. Threatening weather, with occasional light rain, from Texas to the lower lakes and westward. Rising barometer, with north-west winds and clearing weather, is reported from California. The rivers have risen, especially at Pittsburg, Nashville and Memphis, and fallen somewhat at St. Louis.

PROBABILITIES.

The low barometer in Iowa will probably move eastward on Wednesday over the lower lakes; cloudy weather, with rain, continues, with easterly winds in the Gulf and South Atlantic States; threatening weather in the Middle and Eastern States; south-east winds, with rain, or possibly snow, over the lake region; north-west winds, with clearing weather west of Illinois and Wisconsin.

Dangerous winds are not anticipated for to-night on the Atlantic coast.

Terrible Murder and Suicide at Little Rock, Ark.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 2.—A horrible tragedy occurred at a house of ill-fame kept by LOTTIE MORTON and VIRGINIA DEE, about 4 o'clock this morning. Capt. NEWLAND and Mr. LATHAM, both highly connected, were visiting the house, when a dispute arose between NEWLAND and LOTTIE, and the former drew a pistol and shot her dead. LATHAM, stepping between the two to prevent further shooting, was struck in the abdomen by a second shot, inflicting, it is feared, a mortal wound, though he is still living. NEWLAND then left the house and proceeded to his room and shot himself. It is believed he will die.

Colorado Applying for Admission.

From the Denver (Col.) News, Dec. 27.

A bill will soon be introduced in Congress for an enabling act for Colorado. To overcome the supposed deficiency in population to entitle the new State to a Representative in Congress, it is proposed to include the Territory of Wyoming. This plan has been proposed and frequently advocated by the News. We believe it the best for many reasons. The State will not be so large as either Texas or California. The organization will terminate the expense of two Territorial Governments and the many abuses that grow up under them. It will give the people full control of their own Government and the choice of their officers. It will give to the West three more votes and a corresponding influence in Congress. The official influence of Wyoming will probably be against it. Part of the people in Colorado, there will not be any opposition at all; or, at most, not enough to carry any considerable weight. We hope the bill will be introduced and crowded to its passage.

BROOKLYN NEWS.

Organization of the Kings County Republican General Committee.

The Kings County Republican General Committee for 1872 assembled last evening for the purpose of organization. Hon. S. B. DUTCHER called the meeting to order, and on motion, LORIN FALKNER was made temporary Chairman and Messrs. J. T. NORTON and ALBERT DAGGETT temporary Secretaries. The credentials of delegates were handed in, when it was ascertained that all the districts were represented except the Fourteenth Ward and New Lots. The seats of delegates from the Second, Twelfth, Fifteenth and Nineteenth Wards and New-Utrecht were contested and referred to the Committee on Contested Seats when appointed. The roll of delegates was then called. On resuming the Sixteenth Ward, Mr. SAMUEL MCLEAN moved that the names of JACOB WORTH and EDWARD M. TERRIENE be laid on the table for future action, but the Chair declined to entertain the motion.

The Committee then proceeded to organize permanently, and Hon. S. B. DUTCHER was unanimously elected President. On taking his seat, Mr. DUTCHER was greeted with enthusiastic applause. He made a few remarks thanking the Committee for the honor conferred, and congratulating them on the present situation and on the brilliant future of the Republican Party in the City, the State and the nation. Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS was elected First Vice-President, WILLIAM J. GARRETT, Second Vice-President; A. H. BERROW, Third Vice-President; FRANKLIN WOODRUFF, Treasurer; J. T. NORTON, Secretary; ALBERT DAGGETT, Assistant Secretary, and E. F. WHEELER, Corresponding Secretary.

The by-laws of last year were adopted. Mr. MCLEAN moved that a committee of five be appointed to consider the verdict rendered by a jury against Messrs. JACOB WORTH and EDWARD H. TERRIENE, and report at the next meeting whether or not they should be suspended. Mr. JACOB WORTH seconded the motion, which was adopted. A committee of five was appointed on by-laws, and the meeting adjourned.

The Democratic General Committee.

The Democratic General Committee met last evening, THENIS G. SCHENCK in the chair.
